Chest Drive Begins

Opens With Breakfast And Parade

Volunteer Workers Set Out To Meet Goal of $97,764

A "kick-off" breakfast, attended by more than 100 volunteer workers, today launched the Marion County Red Feather Campaign to raise $97,764, the amount needed to assure operation of Community Chest agencies during 1952.

The weatherman threw in his bit by providing a perfect autumn day, and if enthusiasm may be taken as a yardstick a Victory Dinner on Oct. 25 is in the offing.

Following the "Dutch treat" breakfast at the Y.M.C.A., the volunteer workers, headed by a police escort, firemen and the Harding High School Band, marched from the Y to Prospect street where they disbanded and, "work tools" in hand, took up their task for the day.

Following the parade the women's division launched its house-to-house campaign while members of the service clubs stopped down town to solicit stores in the Businessmen's Red Feather drive.

1st Report Meeting Friday

The first report meeting will be held at noon Friday. The workers will meet again on Tuesday, Oct. 23, and the Victory dinner is scheduled for Thursday, Oct 23.

"All work and no play" was the keynote sounded by Charles D. Harmon, executive committeeman, who presided for the meeting. The invocation was spoken by Rev. Ashley Booth, pastor of Central Christian Church. As the workers were assembling and throughout the breakfast hour, Dick Myers and his orchestra played a musical program.

Division heads were introduced and on a large blackboard at one side of the assembly room, division quotas were posted. Solicitors for big industries, headed by Ben T. Wiant, have been asked to raise $19,352.80; smaller industries, Rex Robinson leader, $8,798.76; industrial employes, Robert Fay, leader, $14,684.60; individual special gifts, Hoover Brown, leader, $15,642.24; suburban division, Robert Kibbey leader, $977.64; public employes, Ray Reidenbaugh leader, $1,466.46; clubs and organizations, Mrs. Paul Bachman, leader, $488.82; national stores, Charles Osterholt, leader, $4,888.20; county L. Otis Porter and Elmer L. Weimer, leaders, $2,932.92; schools, James E. Frew, leader, $1,222.05; downtown, Jack Taft and David Isaly leaders, $15,397.83.

Not Largest Amount

While this year's goal is higher than the amount requested last year, it does not represent the largest amount contributed by citizens of Marion County, records of the chest show. In 1943 chest contributors gave $110,476.98, and the previous year, 1942, the amount contributed was $105,674.49. In 1944 the amount raised was $99,633.51.

J. B. Bray heads the campaign as general chairman. Women make up the teams soliciting the residential sections and service clubs have taken over the job of carrying on the downtown solicitation. Among those presented with representatives of service clubs and division leaders at this morning's breakfast were Ray Beverly, secretary of the Central Labor nion, A.F.L., Col. Rene Quen-

3 of 8 Children Badly Bruised; Baby Suffering Malnutrition

Marion Man and Wife Accused Of Beating, Neglecting Children

A Marion man and his wife are in Marion County jail today accused of beating three of their eight children in a cruel and abusive manner and neglecting all of them.

One of the children, a four-month-old boy, is in Marion City Hospital in "poor" condition, suffering from malnutrition.

The other seven children are in the receiving ward at the Marion County Children's Home.

Three of them are suffering from bruises received in a beating. They had been flailed with a belt, police said.

Being held are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Amos of Cottage street. They live just outside the Marion city limits. Amos is self-employed, making his living by picking up scrap at the city dump.

Formal charges of cruel and abusive treatment against the father and neglect against the mother will be filed tomorrow, Police Chief Thomas B. Coon said.

Why Children Whipped

Amos told authorities he whipped the oldest boy, 13, because he had been slow in carrying out orders to bring in firewood.

He beat two other children, a boy, 11, and a girl, 12, because they cried when he whipped the first one, he told police.

He used a belt.

All three children were severely beaten, police reported. They were covered with bruises and cuts as a result of the repeated blows from the belt.

The oldest boy and the girl go to the State Street Junior High and the 11-year-old boy to Silver Street School.

In Home Once Before

The children, ranging in age from 4 months to 13 years, were taken away from the parents on one other occasion, police reported.

In March 1950 the children were sent to the Childrens' Home because their parents were unable to keep them properly clothed and clean. They were released to the temporary custody of the parents under the direction of the Child Welfare Board in June 1951.

Juvenile Court records show none of the children have ever been in court on any occasion.

The father, court records show, was employed by the city in the street department. But he quit his job in June, Wesley Honaker, street department superintendent reported.

How Case Discovered

The case came to the attention of police yesterday when an 11-year-old Amos boy became involved in a minor infraction of rules at Silver street school. Juvenile Officer Virgil Campbell was called to investigate and he noticed the boy's arm was bruised. Further investigation revealed the boy's back was bruised and cut from his shoulder to his waist, the result of a severe beating, Campbell said.

Campbell and Deputy Sheriff Elmer Ullom went to the Amos home in an attempt to find out who beat the boy. There they found a four-month-old baby in an undernourished condition and two other children, aged 12 and 13 years, bearing marks that they had been beaten severely.

The two parents were arrested and taken to Marion County Jail. All the children were taken to a physician for physical examination and the baby was ordered to the hospital for treatment. He was reported in "poor" condition today although it is not believed he is in danger of dying.

In Court Tomorrow

Following the completion of the investigation today the parents are to be brought into Juvenile Court tomorrow before Judge Edward J. Ruzzo.

The children are aged four months, and two, three, four, five, 11, 12, and 13 years.

The examining physician said there was evidence they had all suffered from malnutrition but all except the baby were in "good" physical condition.

The family lived in a home which has four rooms down and one up. The house, described as a shack, is located on Cottage street just north of the Garden City pike. Amos was buying the home, court records show.

The home has no bathing fa-

Mighty Display Of Seapower Impresses Ike

ABOARD THE U.S.S. DES MOINES IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, Oct. 16—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, visibly impressed, watched today as a mighty American fleet began bristling demonstrations of how naval power can help defend Europe.

From the wind-whipped bridge of this heavy cruiser, Eisenhower could see the gray shapes of aircraft carriers, heavy cruisers, destroyers, and smaller vessels stretching across a choppy sea as far as the eye could reach.

Correspondents had been warned that the number of warships from the U. S. Sixth Fleet participating in the maneuvers was secret.

Wopat Named Vice President Of Phone Co.

Will Take Charge Of Operations In New Position

Robert M. Wopat of 285 West Church street has been appointed vice president in charge of operations for the Ohio Associated Telephone Co., C. E. Williams, president, announced today.

Mr. Wopat assumed his new duties Oct. 1 and will maintain his office in Marion. His appointment fills a newly-created post with the company.

The new vice president formerly was general plant superintendent for the company. In his new post he will be in charge of general administration over operating matters throughout the entire Ohio Associated system which comprises some 137 exchanges.

Veteran in Industry

Mr. Wopat has a long record of service in the telephone industry. He formerly was associated with the Nebraska Continental Telephone Co., the Texas Telephone Co., the J. W. Wopat Consulting Engineering Co. and the Pennsylvania Telephone Corp. He is a graduate of the engineering school at the University of Michigan.

Other changes in the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. organization include the appointment of F. H. Pratt to succeed Mr. Wopat

British Call Out Troops In Suez Rioting

CAIRO, Oct. 16—(AP)—British troops were called out today to quell rioting in the Suez Canal zone and new anti-foreign demonstrations swept Cairo as public excitement mounted over Egypt's demand to the British to get out of the Suez and the Sudan.

An Egyptian newspaper said the situation in the Suez zone was "tense and dangerous."

A British army spokesman in Cairo said the first battalion of the Lancashire Fusiliers was ordered out when "rioting followed looting" of a British canteen at Ismailia, a city of 50,000 on the western side of the Suez Canal. There are several British camps near the city.

The British spokesman said he could not immediately confirm or deny a report here that British troops opened fire during the Ismailia disturbance. This report came from a Cairo business firm with an office in Ismailia.

The spokesman said the demonstrators set fire to the canteen and that "police assisted in the looting."

The pro-government Cairo newspaper Al Balagh, calling the Ismailia situation "tense and dangerous," said the demonstrators there were youths and workers who, taking offense at British trucks carrying armed British troops, attacked and set the trucks ablaze.

Ask Quick Action On Tax Boost

Called "Most Reckless Spending Spree In History," by Martin

(Tax bill details on page 12)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—(AP)—Administration leaders signaled for quick one-two action by the House and Senate today to clear a $5,732,000,000 tax increase to President Truman.

Final approval was taken for granted in both houses, although Republican opponents of the tax boost were ready to make a motion—if only for the record—to return the bill to a joint conference committee which worked out the final draft. The legislation at this stage is not subject to amendment from the floor.

Democratic leader McFarland (Ariz.) told the Senate to be ready to take up the bill as soon as House action was completed.

In the House, Republican leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts announced he would vote against it as a protest against what he called "the most reckless spending spree" in history.

Asks Rejection

The C.I.O., meanwhile, called on the Senate and House to reject the measure and send it back to the conference committee. In letters sent to congressional leaders, the labor organization contended that the bill:

(1) Increases taxes on low and middle income groups by about 11¾ percent and those on millionaires by only 1½ percent; (2) Imposes a hardship on low and middle income families by boosting excise taxes; (3) Provides an insufficient increase in corporation taxes.

The C.I.O. said it believes taxes should be raised by the $10,000,000,000 the President asked. Its letter, signed by Nathan E. Cowan of the C.I.O. legislative department, said it would urge Mr. Truman to veto the bill if Congress okays it.

The bill, second in size only to the first of two previous post-Korea tax boosts, calls for an increase of $2,333,000,000 in individual taxes, $2,195,000,000 more in corporation taxes, and an additional $1,204,000,000 in excise (sales) taxes over a full year's operation. However, some miscellaneous provisions of the bill will result in revenue losses, cutting the net increase in treasury income to the $5,732,000,000 figure.

For the current fiscal year, ending next June 30, the increase was estimated at $2,768,000,000, several billions shy of the amount which treasury officials say will be required to balance the budget.

Effective Nov. 1

The individual income tax boosts are to take effect Nov. 1, when the withholding tax begins to take a bigger bite out of wage and salary checks. The excise increases, affecting whisky, beer, cigarets, gasoline, automobiles and a number of other items, also are to go into effect the first of next month provided Mr. Truman signs the bill by Sunday.

An increase of five percentage points in the regular corporation tax rates is to be retroactive to last April 1, although another provision making a greater part of corporate earnings subject to the excess profits tax will not go into action until Jan. 1, 1952.

SEN. ROBERT A. TAFT

Announces In Capital Conference

Says His Campaign Only Kind That Will Elect a Republican

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—(AP)—Senator Taft announced today he is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I am going to run because I believe I can conduct the only kind of a campaign which will elect a Republican to office," the senator told a crowded press conference.

Taft issued three carefully prepared statements to more than 100 newsmen, photographers and others who filled the large committee room used by Republican senators.

The longest statement said he would enter the Wisconsin presidential primary and also accept the bid of Ohio delegates to the nominating convention next year.

Senator Bricker, Taft's Republican colleague from Ohio, said that the announcement would give him a definite advantage.

Ready to take issue with Taft supporters on that point where backers of Gen Dwigh D. Eisenhower, who so far has kept publicly silent on whether he will seek the G.O.P. nomination next year.

But his supporters say they have no doubt he will be available and will make his announcement when he complete his indefinite assignment as supreme commander of the North Atlantic defense forces in Europe.

First To Announce

No other candidate of either major party has thrown his hat in the 1952 presidential ring. The Democrats are expected to remain silent until President Truman makes known his decision.

Taft today announced that he would not comment "on other possible candidates for the Republican nomination."

He hit at "smearing tactics" of some organizations and singled out one in California for "making wholly unjustified attacks on Governor Warren and General Eisenhower."

Both the California Republican governor and Gen. Eisenhower, have been listed as possible rivals of Taft for the G.O.P. nomination.

Taft came up to his decision fortified by a report from his close political advisers that he is "the overwhelming and obvious choice" for the G.O.P. nomination.

The report, made public last week, was based on a cross-country sentiment - sounding survey conducted for him by David S. Ingalls of Cleveland and Ben Tate of Cincinnati.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said in a Chicago speech last night that if the Ohioan is nominated "he will go down in defeat."

Detroit Speech

Taft appeared to be in the mood of a man ready and willing to take the stump in telling Michigan Republicans last night that next year's presidential election will be the most crucial "in our times."

In a speech to 1,500 persons at a $100-a-plate dinner in Detroit, Taft said the Truman Administra-

Five Others Damaged

Nine Red Jets Downed In 15-Minute Air Battle

U. S. 8TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA, Oct. 16—(AP)—American jet pilots shot down nine Red jets and damaged five others today in two roaring air battles.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said one Sabre was lost.

All but one of the Reds' MIG-15s were hit in history's deadliest jet battle. It erupted late in the day between 33 U. S. jets and more than 100 MIGS. The battle ranged from six miles in the sky down to tree top level.

The dog-fighting jets raced over the 500 square miles of northwest Korea that form MIG-Alley.

It was all over in 15 minutes.

Veteran American jet pilots said it was the roughest fight they've had.

On the ground Allied infantrymen smashed forward on three fronts.

Americans and South Koreans drove nearly a mile closer to Kumsong in Central Korea in their almost uninterrupted advance along a 22-mile front.

Allies Advance

The Allies were within five miles of the Red stronghold after a six-mile advance in less than four days.

On the western front U. S. First Calvary Division troops smashed into fiercely resisting Chinese, dug into deep bunkers on a hill line northwest of Yonchon. They were locked in close battle at midday.

South Koreans captured another hill on the rugged eastern front.

The day's air battle started when an American Sabre jet pilot shot down a Red jet in a brief battle in MIG Alley over northwest Korea between 17 Sabres and 12 MIG-15s. Eleven B-29 Superforts heavily bombed rail lines in the same area after raining air-bursting bombs on Red front line troops in night attacks at 21 points.

Tuesday advances on the central front gave the U. S. 24th Division and the Republic of Korea (ROK) Sixth Division control of most of the higher hills on the approaches to Kumsong.

Only comparatively low and rolling hills lie between them and the Red assembly point. The town was within easy range of American artillery.

Allied Drive Will Continue, Ridgway Says

TOKYO, Oct. 16—(AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today United Nations troops will continue to drive northward in Korea—and Allied demands for a cease-fire line will advance with the front.

The U.N. supreme commander conferred later for an hour with Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief Allied truce negotiator, who flew in from Korea.

Presumably Joy gave a full report on attempts to reopen armistice negotiations, which the Reds broke off Aug. 23.

Liaison officers are still jockeying over the extent of neutral areas to be set up around the negotiators. Communists submitted a new proposal Tuesday. The Allies turned it down.

The liaison officers scheduled another meeting for 10 a.m. Wednesday (8 p.m. Tuesday E.S.T.) at Panmunjom, selected as the site for renewing truce talks.

A release from U.N. command advance headquarters in Korea said the Reds proposed enlarging the neutral area around Munsan, where the U.N. truce team has its headquarters. They also proposed creating a three-mile wide corridor centered on the road linking Munsan and Kaesong, Red truce headquarters and former negotiation site. Panmunjom is on this road.

A U.N. command statement released at Munsan said this "would increase the area in which violations could occur to about 175 square miles."

Hunt Big Plane Down at Sea

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—(AP)—Rescue patrols rose at dawn from Air Force bases around the North Atlantic to scan the waves for a big plane lost yesterday out of the Azores with 11 men.

Through the night some 50 planes had roamed the skies along a Great Circle route from Westover Air Force Base, near Boston, listening for any repetition of a faint S.O.S. heard yesterday, and looking for any peril light from the sea.

The lost craft, a C-97 Boeing military transport, left Lages Air Force station in the Azores at 3:45 a.m. (EST) yesterday. It headed for Westover Field, where it was due at 2:22 p.m. (EST). It was carrying 3½ tons of mail and four tons of other cargo.

Presented to Voters as Plain "Bob"

Record Shows Taft Noted for Courage In Risking Political Suicide In Past

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—(AP)—Robert Alphonso Taft is the tall, sober man of a fat, jovial father who became president of the United States.

The son has long aspired to follow in his father's footsteps.

Senior senator from Ohio, chairman of the Senate's Republican policy committee, the son of William Howard Taft has twice been within striking distance of his party's presidential nomination, and in two other presidential years has been "among those mentioned."

He's been a national figure for more than a decade.

A sometimes impatient man, with a quiet sense of humor, Taft has often taken the unpopular side of a question—has risked political suicide more than once—with the calm assertion that time will prove him right.

He also has been known to change his position on occasion and—as in the case of the Communist-in-government crusade of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis)—to adopt a policy of silence that could be interpreted either as secret approval or as aloofness.

Taft's backers are offering him to the voters as plain "Bob" Taft.

No Glamor

It is unlikely they will try to make a glamor candidate out of him.

At 62, Taft bulges slightly about the middle and is partly bald. His voice is starchy but incisive. He wears rimless spectacles.

A movie director might cast him as the vice president of a bank, a man who passes the collection plate in church on Sunday.

Politics is in the senator's blood. It was at the White House that Taft met his future wife, Martha Wheaton Bowers, daughter of his father's solicitor general.

Vivacious witty Martha Taft is one of the best-known women in Washington. She's regarded as a shrewd politician in her own right, has not been well for the past year. She and the senator, who are financially well off, are the parents of four sons.

Taft has been in the presidential picture for 15 years.

He was Ohio's "favorite son"

Steer Sale Friday To Climax Year's Work for Area Youths

The climax to a year's work in feeding and caring for their steers will come at 7 30 p.m. Friday for some 30 F.F.A. and 4-H Club boys and girls in the Marion area.

That's the time their animals will be auctioned off at the fourth annual Junior Steer Show and Sale, which will be held at the Marion yards of the Producers Livestock Association on West Center street.

The steers, weighing 900 to 1,100 pounds, are farm projects of Future Farmers and 4-H Club members. They were grown from 350 to 500 pound calves. During the year, careful track was kept of the animals' health and feeding.

Pay Attention to Grooming

This week, as the young people prepare their animals for the annual show, particular attention will be paid to the grooming of the steers.

The animals will be shown before a beef specialist from Ohio State University in the afternoon preceding the night's sale.

A champion will be selected from each breed class and the champions will compete for the grand and reserve championships.

The grand champion steer will be the first sold in the evening. This animal will be followed into the sale ring by the reserve champion and the breed champions.

To Parade Around Ring

After these six animals, there will be a parade of almost fifty steers led by the boy or girl who fed and handled it for 300 to 365 days getting ready for these few minutes in the sale ring. Each 4-H or F.F.A. member will circle the ring just long enough for the packers, butchers, businessmen and individuals who want meat for their lockers to look over his or her steer and place their bids.

Each time the auctioneer cries "Sold" it will mark the end of another F.F.A. or 4-H steer project. It is through such projects that these young people learn about livestock management by doing the work connected with the project.

Selling the steer is another experience that helps rural youth to understand the business side of farming.

The Azores stretch from 800 to 1,200 miles west of Portugal

Observance Of U.N. Day Set Friday

Indian Lecturer To Speak at Country Club Luncheon

Nilkanta Chavre, Indian lecturer, will speak on "India's Place in the United Nations" at a luncheon in the Marion Country Club Friday at 12:15 in a community observance of U.N. day.

The luncheon is sponsored by the Marion County League of Women Voters, of which Mrs. Carl Schell is United Nations chairman. Mrs T E. Sonnanstine is in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs H. K Mouser, Mrs. Jay Meish Sr, and Mrs. Walter Hane.

Reservations for the luncheon are limited to 150 persons, both men and women, and may be made by calling Mrs. Francis Wanda by Thursday noon. The price per person is $1 75.

Mrs. Lewis Uhl, president of the Past Presidents Club of the Federation of Women's Clubs, will present a U.N. flag to the Federation in behalf of the past presidents. Mrs. Hane, Federation president, will accept it for the Federation.

Mrs. Tim Wyant will sing "One World," as part of the program which will begin at 1:30. Persons unable to be present at the luncheon may attend the program.

W. G. Gattshall Named Assistant Bee Inspector

W. G. Gattshall of near Caledonia has been named Marion County assistant deputy bee inspector by county commissioners.

He succeeds Ralph Solinger of 323 Powhatan street who resigned because of a conflict with his regular job. Mr. Solinger resigned last week after serving as inspector for two weeks. He was appointed Sept. 27 to replace Charles Erow, who resigned due to ill health.

The appointment of Mr. Gattshall becomes effective immediately. His work will consist of working with bee owners in the county and making periodic inspections of the bees and hives, as required by state law.

U. E. Hootman of near Marion is deputy inspector for Marion County. Both the deputy and assistant deputy are paid a daily rate according to the time spent on the job.

Bucyrus Girl Scalded by Fall Into Hot Water

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Oct. 16—Patricia Ann Gregory, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Gregory of near Bucyrus is in City Hospital here suffering from burns she received over the weekend when she accidentally fell into a kettle of scalding water in the kitchen of the family home.

The child's father said an older sister of Patricia had placed the kettle of scalding water on the floor and had left the room to get cold water to cool the kettle. The child crawled down out of her high chair, walked across the floor and tumbled into the water.

Hospital authorities said Patricia "is in fairly good condition and seems to be getting along well."

Mr. Gregory is employed at the Richard Pfleiderer poultry farm near Bucyrus.

Postmaster Lists Instructions for Mailings to Men Overseas

Christmas Gifts to Armed Forces Personnel Should Be Mailed Now

The period Oct. 15 to Nov 15 has been designated for the acceptance of Christmas parcels for members of the Armed Forces serving outside the United States.

The following instructions have been issued by Postmaster Homer D. Cole to assure delivery of the gift parcels on time and in good condition.

The term "Armed Forces overseas" includes the personnel of the Armed Forces, members of their families, and authorized United States civilians employed overseas who receive their mail through an Army Postoffice, care of Postmaster, New York, N. Y., San Francisco, Calif., New Orleans, La., or Seattle, Wash., or Fleet Post Office at New York, N. Y., or San Francisco, Calif.

Time of mailing. The earlier Christmas parcels are mailed, the better. Parcels destined for delivery in Japan, Korea, and the islands in the Pacific should be mailed as early as possible, preferably not later than Nov. 1, in view of the distances involved.

Parcels for Navy and Marine Corps personnel serving in the most remote areas should be mailed immediately.

Size and weight. One hundred inches, length and girth and 70 pounds, restrictions for mailing other domestic parcel post are applicable to Christmas parcels for Armed Forces personnel except that a limit not to exceed 50 pounds has been established for parcels addressed for delivery to A.P.O.'s 124, 125, 147, and 179 care of Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Preparation. Boxes for overseas transmission must be of strong construction on account of the handling and storage they must undergo. It is absolutely necessary that all articles for overseas be packed in boxes of metal, wood, solid fiberboard, or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard.

Each box should be securely tied with strong cord, preferably by four separate pieces, two lengthwise and two crosswise, knotted at crossings. Boxes should contain sufficient cushioning material so that the contents will be tightly packed to prevent any rattling or loosening of the articles. All fiberboard boxes should be securely wrapped in heavy paper.

Prohibited articles. In addition, to the usual articles normally prohibited in the mails, matches of all kinds and lighter fluid are unmailable. Cigarets and other tobacco products are prohibited transmission for delivery through A.P.O.'s.

Postage. The domestic rates of postage are applicable, and postage must be fully prepaid. Air mail articles weighing not to exceed eight ounces are chargeable at the rate of six cents per ounce or fraction thereof, and those intended for air service weighing over eight ounces are chargeable at the rate of 80 cents per pound or fraction thereof.

Addressing. Complete addresses must be legible and prepared in typewriting or ink. It is preferable that the outside addresses be hand-painted directly on the wrappers, since labels frequently fall off. It is desirable that a slip of paper containing the names and addresses of the sender and addressee, together with a list of the contents be enclosed in each parcel.

Permissible additions. In addition to the name and address of the sender, inscriptions such as "Merry Christmas" and "Please do not open until Christmas" may be placed on the covering of the parcel, on an enclosed card. Books may bear simple dedicatory inscriptions not of a nature of personal correspondence.

Christmas cards. Greeting cards for Armed Forces personnel overseas should be mailed at first-class rate prior to Nov. 15 and at air-mail rate prior to Dec. 1.

Use of money orders. Postal money orders are recommended to transmit gifts of money. Exportation of currency to overseas A.P.O.'s where the dollar is not the accepted medium of exchange is prohibited.

Woman Sentenced To Reformatory on Bad Check Charge

CLEVELAND, Oct. 16—(AP)—A 21-year-old mother who admitted passing bad checks with her husband over a 17-state area was given a one-to-25-year term in the state women's reformatory at Marysville yesterday.

The term given the woman, Mrs. Betty Huffaker, was the same as that recently received by her husband, Willard, 22. The two had pleaded guilty in Common Pleas Court to unarmed robbery in the $21 holdup of a cab driver.

A probation officer told the court they had abandoned their three children in South Carolina and with the exception of one telephone call had made no effort to look after their welfare.

The children now are with Huffaker's mother in Colorado.

Warrants asking for the arrest of the pair had been received from Toledo and Pueblo, Col.

Body of Korea War Soldier To Be Returned

The body of Pfc. James E. Jones of Marion, killed in action in Korea April 17, will arrive here about 1 p.m. Thursday from Jersey City, N. J., by train, with military escort, and will be taken to the M. H. Gunder and Sons Funeral Home on West Center street.

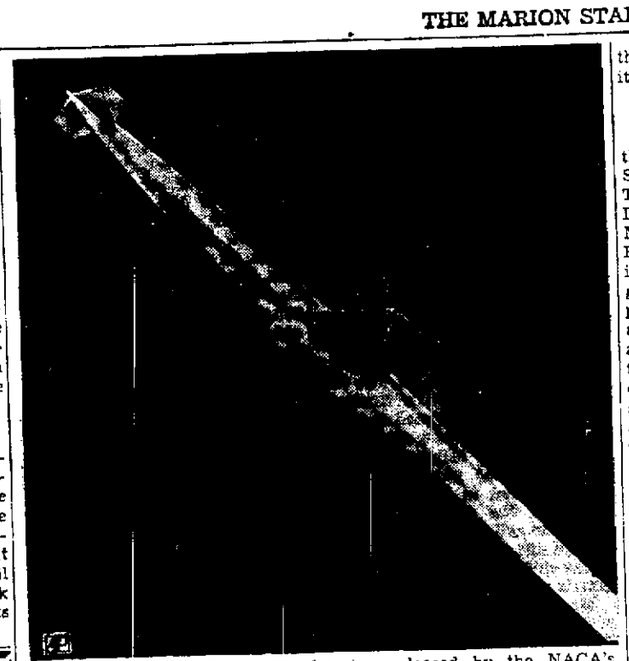
A veteran of World War II, Pfc. Jones served with the Seabees, then was in the Army five years, and was sent to Korea in February. A graduate of Harding High School, he received his diploma after he enlisted with Seabees. He married Edna Blevins of Wurtland, Ky.

His wife and children, Gloria Jean and George, and his mother, Mrs. Della Jones, live at 307 Glad street. Sisters and brothers are Mrs. Opal Fleming, Charles E. Jones, Mrs. Marybelle Peters and Mrs. Edna Street who live in Marion, Mrs. Virginia Shirk of Green Camp, John Jones of Temperance, Mich., Mrs. Anna McKnight of Norwalk, Calif., and Mrs. Bertha Disbennett of Pharisburg.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p.m. in First Wesleyan Methodist Church on Silver street. Rev. Howard Berridge will officiate. Burial will be in Chapel Heights Memory Gardens. Friends may call at the Jones home after 7:30 p.m. Thursday until 11 p.m. Saturday, then at the church. Military services are being arranged.

NEW COMPLAINT

COLUMBUS Oct. 15—(AP)—A fresh complaint on the proposed route of the Ohio turnpike may cause Gov. Frank J. Lausche to delay his decision on the matter. Lausche reported he might postpone his announcement until the Cleveland Metropolitan Park Board has had time to outline its objections to the route.



TAIL-FIRST MISSILE. This drawing released by the NACA's Lewis Flight Propulsion Laboratory shows the new research trend in guided missiles—putting the horizontal control surf aces (fins) in the nose. This gives it the appearance of going "tail-first." Another new trend is to put the ram-jet engine which powers the missile inside the fuselage. The actual missile is being used in research at the laboratory.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

A Health Hazard of Hunting

The small game hunter is no exception to the rule that every activity or sport holds its own hazards. One of the dangers which lie in wait for the devotee of hunting is rabbit fever or tularemia, a contagious disease spread by contact with wild animals.

As the name indicates, wild rabbits are the most frequent source of this infection, but it may also be picked up from ground squirrels, rats, mice, muskrats, porcupines, chipmunks, beavers, grey foxes, possums, woodchucks and sheep. It has also been found in quail, grouse, and other wild fowl. Domestic rabbits are usually entirely free from this disease.

Usually, the germ enters the body through a small cut, while handling infected rabbit meat. It takes about three or four days for symptoms to appear.

Ordinarily, there is a small, pimple-like raised area of the skin, occuring at the point of the cut; then there is an inflammation of the lymph glands in the area protecting the cut portion of the body. Fever, chills, and weakness are common during the first two to three weeks of the attack.

The disease may last from six months to a year, but usually ends before three months. In about 5 percent of the cases, the infection is very severe, and death may occur.

Tularemia offers no danger if rubber gloves are worn while skinning, dressing, or handling wild animals, especially rabbits. Wild rabbits should be cooked until no red juices remain, even in the meat around the bones.

The hands should be thoroughly washed with soap and water after handling any wild animals. When in wooded areas the bites of flies and ticks should be avoided as these may spread tularemia.

All rabbits whoe internal organs are studded with white spots should be destroyed, for it is likely that they have tularemia. However, the absence of such white spots does not mean that the animal is free from rabbit fever.

Up until the recent use of the antibiotics, no cure was known for tularemia. At present, promising results have been found with the use of streptomycin, terramycin, chloramphenicol and aureomycin in the treatment of this condition.

Questions And Answers

P.T.S.: Is acne hereditary and would it be passed on to our children?

Answer: There is no evidence that acne is hereditary and that it runs in families.

GUEST NIGHT OBSERVED

Guest night was observed when the Sunshine Class of Prospect Street Methodist Church met Thursday night at the church. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. John Dietsch, and B. K. Hill was in charge of a song service. Guest speaker for the program was Rev. J. Paul Goebel, pastor of the First Evangelical and Reformed Church. He gave a talk and showed pictures of his trip to Palestine. Other numbers on the program were two piano selections by Miss Betty Lou Jones and a vocal solo by Mrs. Carroll Schmidt, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Noah Weaver. Prayer by Mr. Hill closed the program. For a short business session, Mrs. Harry Wilhelm presided. Refreshments were served and on the committee in charge were Mrs. Fred P. Haas, chairman, Mrs. George Bechtle and Mrs. E. H. Harden.

Mr. Boyle Is Unwell

THREE things about the William M. Boyle Jr. episode need second thought.

First, Mr. Boyle was not kidding when he told President Truman that he did not feel physically able to carry on further as chairman of the Democratic national committee. The pressures and tensions of the job, including the allegations of wrongdoing in relation to the RFC, have impaired his health.

Second, Mr. Truman's decision to let a party chairman of his own choosing withdraw under fire is one of the most damaging and humiliating political experiences he could undergo at this time.

Third, the demand that Guy Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican national committee, be thrown to the wolves because he, too, had dealings with RFC marks a new low in an era when political morality has approached the vanishing point. Antics like these in politics can be interpreted to mean only one thing: that confusion and cynicism have corroded official and unofficial thought so deeply that men no longer can distinguish between right and wrong. It is not merely Chairman Boyle who is unwell; it is the United States. And it is not the country's physical health which is impaired, but its mental health.

These are days when the threat of communism is supposed to justify extreme measures to combat the threat. Certainly the Communist conspiracy could ask for nothing more favorable than a collapse of political morality in the United States, destroying confidence in established authority. Certainly those who are determined to save the nation from communism could do nothing more constructive right now than to make certain that a man named Gabrielson is not thrown to the wolves to take some of the heat off a man named Boyle.

No Voice of Approval

THE checks and balances which school children are told so much about in their civics classes do not keep the government from using its power lopsidedly without a certain amount of stress and strain.

A sequence of stress-and-strain events came to a conclusion last Tuesday when the U. S. Senate, with no voice of approval, rejected two Presidential appointments to the federal bench in the state of Illinois, Paul Douglas. This was contrary to the unwritten rule that federal appointments are made by the Chief Executive after consultation with members of Congress and never against their wishes.

Though this is not one of the major checks and balances, it is one of the means whereby the power of the executive branch to dominate the judicial branch is curbed by the legislative branch. It is one of the areas of shared responsibility which representatives and senators guard jealously against executive trespassers.

Unfortunately, the Illinois judgeship incident has been written off by many as no more than an incident in party politics. It happened to be, also, an incident in the fight against despotism in the United States; i.e., one-man rule.

Pursuit of Glamor

BY WAY of measurement, the presidential campaign of 1952 will be at its climax one year from now. Before then, all the now unresolved problems of candidates and policies will have been settled after a fashion, and the two political parties will have been at each other hammer and tongs for many months.

In preparation for the campaign and the decisions it makes necessary there is a great deal of soul-searching going on among those who consider themselves or are considered by others to be experts. One detail of their search is particularly interesting to those still wondering what upset Thomas E. Dewey's bright prospects in 1948.

They would like to know, these experts, what has been lacking in the Republican party's appeal to voters. In 1932 it was obvious, at least by hindsight, that the depression caused masses of voters to want a change—any kind of change. In 1936, it was obvious that Alfred M. Landon would have to compete with a newly glamorous figure in politics. It is forgotten now, but Franklin D. Roosevelt acquired his glamor after he went to the White House; he did not take it with him.

Because Landon failed, Wendell Wilkie semed a likelier candidate on the glamor basis. When he failed, Thomas E. Dewey, still endowed with the reputation of a prosecutor of gangsters, seemed likely to possess the required glamor. But Mr. Dewey could not beat Mr. Roosevelt on that basis and could not even beat Harry Truman, as it turned out, though no one ever claimed that Mr. Truman possesses even a modicum of glamor.

It is dawning on some of the soul-searchers and on some of those who merely are curious about the ebb and flow of political tides in what sometimes resembles a sea of confusion that glamor has been overrated. It is one of the lesser qualifications for political potency. One of the greater qualifications, long neglected, is ability to inspire confidence—a qualification which has a close relationship to a candidate's ability to risk unpopularity for the sake of his own integrity.

Taft, Unions Back Bill

By David Lawrence

Get Together on Union Shop Legislation

WASHINGTON

UNION labor and Senator Taft buried the hatchet long enough to steer through Congress a piece of legislation which labor leaders very much wanted—and to which the Ohio senator wasn't particularly opposed.

It constitutes a bit of political byplay which illustrates the shallowness of the argument that management and labor are destined always to fight each other in Congress.

The new legislation makes it legal for a management and a union to agree, as a matter of contract negotiation, to carry on what is known as a "union shop." The original Taft-Hartley act stipulated that there could be no "union shop" unless a majority of the employes, by a special election, voted for it. All kinds of inconveniences arose and much money was spent by the National Labor Relations board in supervising the machinery of such elections. A demand arose to change the law so it would not require elections.

LAWRENCE

But something else happened far more disconcerting. The Supreme Court held that the officers of the national union federations, such as the A.F.L. and the C.I.O. and not merely officers of local unions, had to sign anti-Communist affidavits before the union could enjoy the privileges of National Labor Relations Board machinery on elections or anything else. The decision really invalidated many previous elections that had been held with unions whose parent organizations had not complied with the law as the court finally construed it because they honestly had believed themselves exempt.

SO THE AMENDMENT which has just been adopted really legalizes all past elections, too, and starts the whole thing off on another basis altogether — namely, by negotiation rather than by the election method.

The "union shop" permits the employer to hire whomever he pleases, but within 30 days the new employe must decide to join the union or quit the job. This differs from a "closed shop," where only union members may be hired by management originally. The "closed shop" is still banned by the Taft-Hartley Act.

The "union shop" is, of course, wrong in principle, too, for it means compulsory unionization as the price of retaining a job in free America. When the Hartley bill was passed by the house and the Taft bill by the Senate, there were differences between the two, and, while the "closed shop" was barred in both bills, the compromise favored the retention of the "union shop." It was a last-minute concession.

SO SENATOR TAFT did surrender to the doctrine of compulsory unionization at that time, and now for a second time he has affirmed that same viewpoint. The most significant thing, however, about the episode is the fact that, when labor and management want to get together on labor - management legislation, they can readily do so. Up to now the union leaders have insisted on complete repeal and have fought against any amendments, however meritorious from their own standpoint. There is a bill pending to amend the Taft-Hartley act in several other respects. While the Senate, under Mr. Taft's leadership, adopted it, thus far, union leaders have not allowed the matter to come to a vote in the house, preferring to save the controversy as an issue for the 1952 campaign.

But Senator Taft comes out pretty well in this latest development because he can say to union voters next year, if he is the nominee for the Presidency, that his attitude toward the amendment just adopted illustrates his readiness to be fair and objective about the protests of labor if he is elected president. Unquestionably the Ohio senator and his friends saw that particular advantage in getting behind the amendment on the "union shop" elections and felt that the difference between an election-granted or a negotiated "union shop" was too insignificant to quarrel about.

ALSO THE ELECTIONS did make a lot of work for the Nation Labor Relations Board and the Unions. To those who believe in compulsory unionization anyway, there is no essential difference whether the objective is attained by negotiation or by an election. For usually the union has a majority when it secures the status of bargaining agent for all employes. The principle of compulsory unionization is neither weakened nor strengthened by the change in the law, as the labor board still retains jurisdiction over the elections held in the first instance to determine whether a union has or has not a majority of employes behind it.

DEAR NEPHEW: I am not one of those newspaper subscribers that cancel their subscriptions every time they get sore, but how long do I have to put up with stories about hale-and-hearty old timers?

Or to restate my question, where did you newspaper people get the idea there is anything newsworthy about living a long time and liking it? According to statistics, there is more of this going on every year. If things keep improving, it will not be long until Congress passes an age tax that will clip you with a penalty for every year over 100.

Seriously, I do not think it is logical to make any fuss about old age — I mean any special fuss. As one of the oldest people alive and speaking also for your indestructible aunt, who is three months older than I am I believe the only fuss should be the kind that sensible people make over babies.

Love us and feed us and let us have fun. Keep the government off our necks because we have fought the good fight and earned a respite from bureaucratic bubling and bobbing. Don't yell in our ears unless we ask you to speak up because the battery in our electric listener is weak.

Don't start pussy-footing in defense to our burdens of years, either, because the time for that comes later when we won't know about it. And for the love of Methusaleh, try to find soomething useful for us to do as long as we feel like being useful.

There is nothing hard about any of this, as far as I can see, because all it means is being natural. What gives me the creeps is evidence that worrying about us mature specimens is getting to be a fad. I do not want to interfere with anything worthwhile that can be done to make elderly people happy, but if they sic the bleeding hearts on us I'll lead a rebellion.

As you should know, I am an unreasonable, sinful, vile, profane and unorthodox old coot. I have irregular thoughts about everything from politics to the opposite sex. I do not regret anything about my past and fully intend to regret none of the regrettable things I have been saving for the future.

Also as you know, your aunt is a sharp-tongued old biddy with a heart as big as a barrel and a temper to match it. She has been trying to back me down ever since I let her make a fool of herself over me and is not trustworthy with foxy grandpa types that want to kick up their heels. Anyone who wants to help her down the shady side of the slope had better look sharp or she will clamp an arm-lock on him for size.

Please, just tell us you never saw us looking better, that you have been looking forward to seeing us, that you always enjoy seeing us, that you wish you knew how to keep yourself in the same good condition we are in—and skip the rest. Sure, some old folks don't have it so good. But on the other hand some never did have it so good. Let's not make an issue of it. Concentrate on Worrying about what is going to happen to us. We are not going to attend the World Series in 2000 A. D.

Convey the usual regards to the usual people, and your aunt chimes in that foxy grandpa types leave everything to be desired, which she thinks is a pretty sharp joke for an old party like her.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

The village of Meeker once was known as Cochranton. William Cochran, after whom the village was named, came to Ohio from Virginia about 1812, and settled in Ross County. He moved, with his large family, to Marion County settling at what is now Meeker. The mail at that early date was carried on horseback from Marion to Bellefontaine, following a half-beaten path of the Indians which passed by his place. The postoffice was established at his house and was named Cochranton. About 1837 "Colonel" Cochran moved to LaGrange, Ind., where he died.

Time To Close Out

A Study of "God and Man at Yale"

By George E. Sokolsky

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR., is of the generation that must take over the management of this country during the next 10 years or so. Graduated from Yale in 1950, he had made quite a record for himself as editor of the "Yale Daily News," as a debater and as a student.

Buckley was driven by our confused world and the broken lives of our sons to wonder what he got at Yale in the way of an education. That is an upsetting question for a young fellow because then he has to ask himself what an education is.

SOKOLSKY

Why does one go to college? Is it to get facts which can be culled out of books. Is it to meet athletic people such as appear nightly at Toots Shor's bar? Is it to build character, to gain inspiration, to pound out a personality?

Having pondered over these questions, young Buckley wrote a book, "God and Man at Yale," which every parent who has a son or a daughter at college should read, study and think about.

FOR THIS IS NOT an old man talking about a messed up or a lost generation. This is a young man who loves his college and who achieved distinction in it and who is describing its composition, its personnel, its responsibilities.

Perhaps Buckley's dedication tells the whole story. It is "for God, for country, and for Yale, in that order." And the order is the point of the book. If Yale does not serve God and country, what does it serve? Or what does Harvard or Columbia or Dartmouth or any other college serve? Buckley makes his position clear in this statement:

"... I contend that the trustees of Yale, along with the vast majority of the alumni, are committed to the desirability of fostering both a belief in God, and a recognition of the merits of our economic system. I therefore concluded that as our educational overseers, it was the clear responsibility of the trustees to guide the teaching at Yale toward those ends."

The charge will undoubtedly be made that Buckley is a religious bigot. What Buckley found at Yale, is atheistic bigotry; amoral bigotry; anti-capitalistic bigotry. It would seem to be intolerable to hold to one's faith, but tolerable to oppose all religion; it would seem to be cultural to stimulate curiosity concerning the varieties of socialism, but reactionary to believe the economic and social system which developed our America over three centuries.

THE QUESTION that this young man raises cannot be put down by denouncing his religious beliefs or his church affiliations, whatever they may be. His basic question is why our universities devote so much of their teaching time to a denunciation of so much that is fundamentally American.

and this question our colleges will have to answer to the parents of the students and to the alumni of these schools. John Chamberlain, in an introduction to this book, says:

"Professor Henry Steele Commager of Columbia University, who thinks that the university faculties, not the alumni or the parents of the students, should have final control over the aims of education, has virtually stated that the customer has no rights in the educational market place. Pursued to its logical conclusion, the Commager theory would end by setting up an elite of professorial untouchables. The elite would perpetuate itself as it chose. . ."

Mrs. Barkley, Homemaker

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON

AS wife of the vice president, Mrs. Alben Barkley has met with ease and grace the demanding pressures of the role in the Capital's busy official and social life.

But, despite her heavy schedule of public activities as second lady of the land, homemaking has remained of primary importance to her, and she now emerges as "Outstanding Woman of the Year." Modestly accepting the title conferred on her at a luncheon by the Home Fashions League of Washington, Mrs. Barkley said, however, she felt the honor should have gone to her husband instead.

It was the "Veep," she said, who had taught her that a home should reflect the personalities of those who live in it. "It was not until I married the vice president that I was keenly aware of my failure to make my home an expression of myself and my interests," she told league members. "My idea of home fashion had been to call in a good decorator, say 'I like blue' and leave the rest to her.

"Undoubtedly the result was tasteful and attractive, but I am quite sure, although I did not know it then, the result in no way reflected my own personality or the personalities of my family."

Mrs. Barkley said that when she stepped into the vice president's homes here and in Kentucky, she thought, "How perfectly lovely, but this is not the type of furniture or decoration which I ever would have chosen." Then it dawned on her, she said, that the oriental rugs, the antiques, the good crystal and china and silver found in both homes reflected so completely her husband's personality that "I would have felt like an intruder to change one ash tray."

"As time went on, his great interest in all things which are beautiful communicated itself to me," she said. "And I now find I am just as keen about lovely old things as he is." However, she says she feels she has many years of reading and "antiquing" ahead to catch up with him.

Though she felt she did not deserve it, Mrs. Barkley said the award meant very much to her because of her old-fashioned ideas about the art of homemaking. "I consider it to be an art — an art which does not come easily to most of us but which grows through the years."

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

A "Write a Letter Week" Letter

POSTMASTER GENERAL, U.S.A.

DEAR SIR:

You have proclaimed this as National Write A Letter Week, and who am I to ignore you? It is a long time since I heard from you, which was back when you shot the mailman. I did not answer that time because I was not sure of the price of stamps from day to day. Well, how are you? I heard you were not feeling so good on account of you still think there are too many letter carriers making visits, some places even getting two deliveries a day. I guess you feel a little better, however, now that Congress is boosting the mail rates again You will never be really happy until you get the three-cent stamp up to four cents, but I urge patience. How are all the folks? I hope they are all observing Write A Letter Week. All my people are well, except when they go to the postoffice and find another window closed.

PHILLIPS

How is everything in Washington? Everybody is rushing around designing stamps in new colors, shapes, sizes and weights, I hear. Has any progress been made in the project for making the postage stamp bigger than the envelope, so I can just stick the envelope on the stamp instead of vice versa? Do you ever see Jim Farley? If so I bet it reminds you of the old days when a man could afford to mail a letter even if he did not have much dough. Did you have a nice summer? I suppose you had a nice time swimming, fishing, thinking up new plans to cut the service and figuring out a system so a special delivery letter would not reach its destination so soon as today, which is about 48 hours later than the regular mail. Do you ever see Charlie Jones? I do not know who he is either but just asked in order to make the letter longer and show you I am putting everything into Write A Letter Week. Do you miss Joe Snow, Bill Rain and George Gloom? (You know who they are. They are the fellows in that old slogan "Not Snow nor Rain nor Gloom of night stays these couriers from their appointed rounds." You sunk them in all those new rules cutting deliveries, ordering the mailman to ring only once, etc.)

No fooling, it seems funny that you should be urging everybody to write a letter when you have trimmed the service so much that you have done more to discourage correspondence than any postmaster general in history. I really cannot get my heart into this letter. First of all I do not like to write letters because a poster asks me to. If I write my Aunt Matilda or Uncle Gideon it is because I like them and not because the Postmaster General wants it done. I could never start a letter to Cousin Otis saying "My dear Otis: I have not written you in years and would not be doing it now except that I just ran across a poster."

Well, anyhow, now you have a letter from me and know how I feel and, if you have any time, how about a "Get The Mail Through The Way They Used To Week" and an "Open An Extra Stamp Window During Rush Hours Month"?

Love and kisses,
ELMER.

P.S.—Don't take this too seriously, as it is only the kind of letter a man is apt to write during a Write A Letter Week. The Postoffice department does a good job and I don't know what we would do without it, even if the mailman came only three days a week and a postage stamp cost more than a lamb chop.

SKEPTICAL VIEWPOINT

Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time.

If the cortege ain't imposing
And no floral flood appears
Don't be downcast; modern custom
Gives them to the racketeers.

Steering wheels on some new cars can now be turned by power from the motor, eliminating the tugging to get in and out of cramped quarters. The day is near when it will not even be necessary for a man to be in the auto to enjoy the drive.

News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO—It was Thursday, Oct. 16, 1941.

Fire of unknown origin early in the morning destroyed the plant of the Florence Pottery Co. at Mt. Gilead, causing damage estimated at $200,000 and bringing death to Harold C. Johnstone, 66, head of the town's firefighting services, who was stricken at the scene with a heart attack induced by over-exertion and excitement.

The Japanese government resigned, admitting its inability to agree on the great issues confronting the empire. Failure to reach an accord with the United States and growing military pressure for action in the crisis arising from German successes against Russia were strongly indicated as major factors in the ministry's fall.

The nation's first peacetime draft was one year old.

Dwight J. Shelton was elected president and general manager of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. at a meeting of the company's directors in New York City. He succeeded J. H. Watters, who resigned to become president of the Union Asbestos & Rubber Co. of Chicago.

Three men, Prosper D. Gregg of Marion, Clinton Shauk of Galion and John Burns of Ashland, were presented diamond-studded pins in recognition of 50 years of service at an annual dinner of the Kent Division, Veterans' Association of the Erie Railroad. Three others entitled to the pins, G. E. Shoemaker and J. C. Mason of Marion and C. C. Church of Wadsworth, were unable to be present.

C. of C. Groups Make Plans For Christmas

Discuss Parade Retail Committees And Decorations

Two groups of the Chamber of Commerce met jointly Monday noon at the Hotel Harding to discuss and work out detailed plans for a Christmas program in Marion which is to start Friday, Nov 23, with a parade at 1 p.m

Groups meeting were the Retail Promotion Committee, headed by Bert Freed and the Retail Board of Managers, whose chairman is Charles Osterholt.

Floats in the parade, entitled 'The Christmas Story,' will portray religious themes and will be built by church groups in the community. Santa Claus will be welcomed at the parade. His headquarters will be at the courthouse throughout the Christmas season.

Arrangements are being made for Christmas street decorations to be put up Thanksgiving night, Nov. 22.

In addition to the regular schedule of Friday night openings, the Retail Board of Managers has recommended and approved four other nights in December for stores to remain open until 9 p.m. Additional night openings are Monday, Dec 10, Monday, Dec. 17, Thursday, Dec 20, and Saturday, Dec 22. Christmas Eve, stores will close at 5 30 p m.

Committee chairman for the Christmas program are Harry Margwarth, finance Don Flach, publicity; Robert Mason courthouse program; Don Quaintance, police protection, Robert Sprouse, personnel, LeRoy Clauni, street decorations; Al Hamburg, Santa Claus and additional decorations, and John Ryan, parade details.

Boyle Chum Quits As Democrats' Treasurer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—(AP)—Sidney Solomon resigned today as treasurer of the Democratic national committee.

He is the second top committee official to quit within a week Chairman William M Boyle Jr., announced his resignation last Saturday.

Solomon, a St. Louis insurance man and friend of Boyle, disclosed his resignation after a call on President Truman.

He said he left his resignation at committee headquarters before visiting the White House and that details would be made public by the committee.

He attributed his action entirely to his belief that the new chairman "should have free reins to select" his own officials.

School on Welding Conducted at Store

as general plant superintendent. Mr. Pratt has been employed in the telephone industry for 25 years being associated with the present company as district plant superintendent in Marion for almost three years. Appointed to his staff are V. L. Brady, general central office supervisor and C. R. Riley, general construction supervisor.

Former Office Supervisor

Mr Brady was formerly central office supervisor in Marion while Mr. Riley formerly owned and operated the C R. Riley Construction Co of Celina, a telephone and power line construction firm

Mr. Williams also announced that John A Gutnrie, formerly on the staff of the general plant superintendent, has been named the purchasing agent for the company.

Justice Dept. Accused In Tax Scandals

Tried To Hinder Revenue Probers, St. Louis Paper Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—(AP)—Congressional investigation of the Internal Revenue Bureau threatened today to spill over into the Department of Justice.

And a House ways and means subcommittee began hearings here on allegations of influence buying in the office of the Boston collector of internal revenue.

Before the hearings began, new questions were posed by these developments:

1. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, in a copyrighted article, stated that the Justice Department, on at least two occasions, tried to interfere with a federal grand jury investigation that resulted in the indictment of James P. Finnegan, former St. Louis collector.

Reports Phone Call

2. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported last night that in late March while the grand jury was investigating Finnegan's office, Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder telephoned to U. S District Judge George H Moore saying the Bureau of Internal Revenue would investigate and correct any irregularities in the office.

The judge confirmed getting the call. The grand jury was under his guidance.

3. Chairman Celler (D-NY), of the House judiciary committee, promised to consider demands by two members for a separate inquiry into the "conduct of grand juries and the administration of justice" in both St. Louis and San Francisco.

"Interesting Parallel"

Rep. Hillings (R-Calif), who with Rep. Keating (R-NY) asked the inquiry, told newsmen there was "an interesting parallel" between cases involving the tax collectors of both cities.

San Francisco collector James G. Smyth, and eight other district internal revenue employes at San Francisco have been suspended as a result of irregularities.

Hillings said in both cases the Justice Department "sent emissaries out to make special investigations. It was a "curious thing," he declared, that the Justice Department investigation of the San Francisco tax office swung to a United States attorney who was behind the grand jury investigation of Smyth's office.

CHURCH CIRCLE MEETS

Circle No. 4 of the First Presbyterian Church met for a dessert luncheon and meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Leona Taylor of South Main street with Mrs. W. J. Guy as associate hostess. The Misses Ruth and Genevieve Hummel were guests of the group. Devotions were led by Mrs W. R. Thrush Program theme was "Prophecy."

PLEADS GUILTY

ATHENS, O., Oct. 16—(AP)—Clifford Kirkpatrick, 48-year-old hitch-hiker accused of slaying his wife Anita, 38, Sept. 7, while camping along the Hocking River near here, entered a plea of guilty to a first degree murder charge at a preliminary hearing last night. He was bound over to the Grand Jury without bond. A special Grand Jury session will be held Thursday to consider his case.

Marion Garden Center Notes

THREAT TO TREES

When lawns are leveled about new homes, the filling that is necessary is often damaging to trees. They suffer from sudden changes in environment and growing conditions Adding a new soil level makes it more difficult for roots to get an adequate supply of air and water. Often well-packed clay soils used as fills cause death of trees within a few weeks.

Before grading begins, the home owner should make sure the entire area occupied by the roots of any tree is cleared to the original soil surface Roots usually extend some distance farther than the branch spread. Above all, see to the careful removal of plaster, roofing paper, and other debris toxic to the roots

Next, improve the original top soil by cultivating a two-inch layer of peat-moss plus a light application of special tree food high in nitrogen content. Fills of several inches may then be placed over tree roots Use loamy or sandy topsoil to assure loose and well aerated fills

New Career Girls Get Advice On Traveling

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

MEET the U S. traveling girl. Here is a brand new career in a national economy long dependent on the traveling man.

She's a new 'breed of Miss America, modern to her fingertips She's brisk, capable, business like and well versed in the rules of travel.

Typical of this new clan are some 200 girls who travel thousands of miles annually producing and directing "home talent" shows supplied by the Empire Producing Company, of Kansas City, Mo.

These "traveling girls" visit practically every community in the U.S.A. and put on shows sponsored by local civic groups, clubs or fraternal orders.

Since millions of American girls are on the move these days, traveling to and from college, jobs and new homes, some of the travel tips gleaned by these professional travelers should be useful.

WITH THIS IN MIND, a questionnaire recently was circulated among the group of 200 girl travelers, resulting in the following advice:

Q—What do you do with wolves?

A—Ignore them. Hire public porters to help with luggage rather than accept favors of eager males. Don't ask strangers for advice; ask police, bus, railroad and airplane employes. Report persistent pests to authorities.

Q—How do you control conversation with fellow travelers?

A—Keep it short Keep it impersonal Be aloof, but polite and businesslike Don't reveal anxiety when traveling alone.

Q—What do you do when faced with a stopover?

A—Rest and relax as much as possible. Avoid park benches and public rooms that invite unwelcome strangers. Use a professional service for sightseeing. Use the time to write home or to office and to do necessary shopping Never loiter or look "lost".

Q—How do you select a hotel or boarding house?

A—Ask for guidance at Travelers Aid Society or Chamber of Commerce. Look for nationally known places in big cities—members of well-known chains or hotel associations.

Q—What kind of food do you eat when traveling?

A—Plain food, salads and sandwiches, meats and fish served without elaborate sauce or trimmings.

Q—What kind of luggage do you take?

A—Lightweight luggage—preferably one piece so you can carry it yourself if porters are not available. One large bag is better than two small ones A small hatbox or train case is invaluable for cosmetics and things to be used at a moment's notice.

Q—What cosmetics do you use?

A—The kind that don't spoil Creams rather than liquids Cleansing cream, foundation, lipstick, powder and a purse-size vial of perfume

Q—What kind of clothes do you wear?

A—Quick-drying nylon for underthings and blouses Suits and simple dark dresses without pleats when on the move. Low-heeled shoes

Q—What do you do for entertainment?

A—Read newspaper, magazines and books. See movies.

Q—If you need medical assistance, what do you do?

A—Call hotel physician or inquire at drug store Police Department or hospital for name of local doctor.

HOMOGENIZED VITAMIN D MILK

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

CLEVELAND

EVEN if there is no shooting war in 1953, the Defense Department will be drafting 750,000 men a year if we keep our armed forces down to 3,500,000. If we go to 4,000,000 men as planned, we'll be ripping 1,000,000 men a year out of civilian life. This, just to maintain peacetime garrisons. And if necessary, the Draft boards will be told to raid even the most skilled cadres of our factories and scientific labs for G.I.'s. So tight is manpower in the 18½ to 26 - year - old brackets.

Victor Riesel

Young fathers may be forced in. Certainly there'll be no exemption for any 18½ - year-old for school or genius. All this, it seemed to some listeners, is what draft boss General Hershey told business men here late this week . . . Few of the current able-bodied draftees will be let out for years, since Congress will undoubtedly extend the service term constantly at the request of the Defense Department. It's tough, but Gen. Hershey said times were never tougher . .

CAPTURE OF Communist Party strong boss Gus (Dynamite Stick) Hall south of the border will be used immediately by the Soviet propagandists who are assigned to the Russian labor network slowly surrounding the U. S. with Stalinist-Latin unions. This network has crept up on us slowly and unnoticed, it must be revelaed here now. First in Panama around the Canal, then further up the Central American neck in Guatemala (where there are hundreds of professional Communist agents) and now Mexico. Hall undoubtedly left New York for Mexico City to help Latino comrades organize violence—which was his specialty when he was a C.I.O. steel union organizer in the late thirties.

Now that he's been snatched up by Mexican and U. S. intelligence officers, while on the way to help his Mexican brothers organize one big anti-American union there, the Russians are set to drag out their old propaganda (originally released last July 7 in a Moscow broadcast called "Out With The Gringo"). The Soviet propagandists then said that the FBI had "6,000 agents in Mexico," to fight the new Communist unionism spreading amongst the people.

What the Russians want are anti-American demonstrations to provoke the local police—so the Soviet broadcasters can tell the Orient that we're doing the same thing in Korea that we do nearer home to small nations. Namely—"invade" the little lands. The pitch is obvious. So is the objective of Gus Hall's abortive trip to Mexico.

WHAT PRICE radicalism:—The Wobblies once were a romantic lot and many a labor leader recalls how the IWW fought bloody early union battles. Okay. Now let's forget them. This week their paper, the Industrial Worker, spewed at the Jewish faith and called Rabbis racketeers. That's the way the modern Wobbly greeted the Jewish New Year and other high holidays. Take them away . . .

ALL REAL WAGE control by the Wage Stabilization Board will be smashed this winter. First, the A.F.L. is thinking of making its own bargains with employers and telling the war wage board to lump it. Second, the A.F.L. inner circles feel that the Board deserves such treatment because it "is bailing out the C.I.O. on every one of C.I.O.'s cases." Third, Phil Murray will get more than the current wage control formula for his million steel workers, and then John Lewis will top that for his 400,000 coal diggers.

To save itself and keep some lids down, the board is planning to permit the unions and the employers to sign any agreements they want granting higher pensions (up to $200 a month); longer vacations and bigger welfare payments. This means that workers' incomes will go up by hundreds of millions. Example is John L. Lewis' welfare fund. Out of this kitty, made up of a tax on every ton of coal, Lewis paid 721,000 miners and their women and children a total of $254,000 in health, welfare, pension and death benefit funds. He now has well over $100,000,000 left.

So huge are these types of payments in all industries that the Treasury Dept. is considering including them in income taxes.

The wage board hopes that by dropping control over such funds, it will be able to control actual wage payments. But obviously, the ceiling is blown sky high.

DEPARTMENT of the Strangest Labor Relations: Recently the producers of the Schaefer (Beer) Brewing television show received a protest note from the A.F.L. Bartenders Local 15. Union Leader Jack Townsend, in watching the broadcast, saw an actor playing a bartender. Townsend grew indignant. The TV bartender wasn't wearing a union button, as most drink slingers do in the big towns. Townsend complained. From now on, says Schaefer, its actors will go in for more realism. Where called for, they'll wear union buttons. Especially the play acting bartenders.

GRIEVE OVER KIDNAPED BABY. Grieving over mysterious kidnaping of their 5-day-old baby from hospital in Michigan City, Ind., James Lyons, 42, comforts his wife Francis, 37. At left is Lyons' daughter by a previous marriage, Dorothy, 19. Lyons, without wealth or known enemies, is mystified at reason for the baby's kidnaping. The kidnaper asked to see the Lyons baby at the hospital, and evidently removed it while the nurse wasn't watching. A wide search is underway.

Stand Pat On "Gag" Rule At Ohio State

Trustees at Annual Meeting Reaffirm Screening of Speakers

WOOSTER, O., Oct. 16—(AP)—Ohio State University trustees are standing pat on their ruling which gives President Howard Bevis the power to decide who can make speeches on the Columbus campus.

At their annual meeting yesterday trustees reaffirmed the rule giving the head of the state-supported university the job of barring speakers whose ideas he believes would tend to undermine traditional American institutions and government.

The rule has been attacked as a gag on free speech and an infringement on academic freedom. Among those who went on record against it are Catholic Bishop Michael J. Ready of Columbus; the Ohio C.I.O. Council; and, Methodist Bishop Hazen G. Werner, of Columbus.

Long Session

The O.S.U. faculty council asked trustees to reconsider the ruling, which they did at yesterdays' hours-long secret session.

Adoption of the rule followed criticism by the Columbus Dispatch and the Ohio State Journal at Columbus of a campus appearance by Dr. Harold O. Rugg, a retired Columbia University professor.

Since its adopption, President Bevis has barred Dr. Cecil Hinshaw, a Quaker pacifist.

Only one trustee—Senator John W. Bricker, who was in Washington—was absent when the board unanimously voted to reaffirm the ruling.

Trustees approved suggestions by Bevis that a committee of the school's 11 deans discuss with him problems of carrying out the rule and that the board meet sometime in the future with the faculty council to discuss protests.

Carlton S. Dargusch of Columbus, board chairman, said adopting the suggestions by Bevis "in no way (changes) our previous ruling. The president of Ohio State still has the final say about campus speakers. This does not relieve him of any responsibilities in this matter."

Bevis had no comment.

PRECISELY THAT condition prevails. By shrieking "academic freedom!" the professars raise a false issue. For the charge against them often does not involve limitations upon freedom but upon the propagation of falsehood. For instance, the professor who said: "Chaplains accompanying modern armies are comparable to witch doctors accompanying tribes," may have been ignorant but it is more likely that he is a liar. And while his lie gets him a laugh, it does neither his country nor the students any good.

This is an important matter for parents, for while each one believes that his son or daughter could not be that way, the fact is that boys and girls of excellent families are now in jail for acting as Stalin's agents against their own country. If it could happen to the Hiss family, it could happen to yours. And every investigation into the background of these smart, well-bred spies and traitors leads to the influences they encountered in college.

For this reason William F. Buckley's book, "God and Man at Yale," should be a parents' must this year.

NEW YORK

ARE you a wife-waiter?

The average American husband is convinced he spends more time waiting for his wife to get dressed to go out than he does in earning her a living.

And he is more than half right.

How can he ever teach his wife to get ready on time? There is no perfect solution to this problem—or any other problem in life or marriage. But there are some signposts along the way. Here are some wife-waiters I have known:

Hal Boyle

The delirious newlywed — this damp-eared boy chortles to his bride, "Take your time, sweetie-pie. My mother won't mind if we're late to her dinner party. She's a very understanding mother." Two hours later he is grimly aware he'll have to choose between his understanding mother and his procrastinating bride.

The rug-fretter—Hs is the old-fashioned type who stomps back and forth wearing out the carpet as he bellows, "Oh, for gawd's sake, Mable, please!"

THE CUNNING husband — If he has tickets for a Wednesday night show, he tells his wife they're for Tuesday. That way, they only miss the first act.

The either-or-else giver — This ultimatum-maker shouts, "Either you're ready in five minutes or else we don't go." An hour later they leave, barking at each other like angry dogs.

The Boy Scout or fetch-and-carry type—He trots around grabbing up his wife's shoes and stockings and trying to button up the back of her dress. His reward from the frau is this: "If you don't get out of my way, I'll never be ready."

The strong silent type — He buys his wife a television set and refuses to take her out at all except to go to the funerals of her relatives.

The weak or life-is-hopeless type—He goes out into the kitchen, drinks a fifth of gin straight, then breaks out crying.

The give-'em-a-dose-of-their-own-medicine lad — He simply goes to bed and falls asleep. When his wife storms in demanding to know why he isn't dressed, he leers drowsily, "It's your turn to wait, ducky."

The patience-on-a-monument fellow—He just sits waiting in a glassy-eyed trance until his wife emerges, takes his paw in hers, and leads him out the door.

THE SELF - IMPROVEMENT type—This is a new brand of husband that rather worries thoughtful wives, and may force them to correct the ageold feminine penchant for always being late.

He does useful things while waiting—such as charcoal drawings, reading up on gardening, building bookends, or repainting the living room walls.

I heard of one fellow who took a correspondence course in executive management during the lost hours his wife dawdled at her dressing table waiting for her fingernail polish to dry.

He passed the course with flying colors, and received several fine promotions at his office. That gave him a salary large enough to finance a divorce, which he promptly did. Then he married a younger and prettier woman.

"I still have to wait just as long for my wife," he tells friends. "But when that boudoir door finally opens, you ought to see what comes out now. She makes the old one look like Nelson's flagship."

As you can see, girls, this new self-improvement type of husband is a dangerous man to fool with. Don't keep him waiting too long—even if you have to go out in a bathing suit to get where he wants to take you on time.

Who Gets Control?

By Inez Robb

WASHINGTON

WHAT'S cooking on the atomic reactor piles?

Something, all right, but nobody's talking. But a whale of a lot of people are speculating out loud.

Not only is it believed that the military is trying to whistle custody of the nation's stockpile of atomic weapons out of civilian hands and control, but it is fairly certain that the big brass is at last worried over the so far unshaken belief of the American public in the atom bomb as the decisive weapon of war.

Inez Robb

There is concern that the American people have been sold or have oversold themselves on atomic weapons as a sure fire and easy way to decisive victory in any war. There is further concern that the immediate surrender of Japan, following the atomic destruction of Nagasaki and Hiroshima, has firmly fixed in the American mind the finality of any atomic weapons, and its victorious effect.

* * *

"JAPAN WAS LICKED before the bombs were dropped on Nagasaki and Hiroshima," the military say. "They would have surrendered anyway."

And the military goes on to worry lest the American public demand the use of atomic weapons in the Korean war, to effect a quick victory, if true negotiations blow up.

There can be no argument about the devastating effectiveness of an atom weapon against masses of men and material in a city such as Hiroshima. But on a modern battlefield, where men no longer fight in great massed formations but in small, hard hitting units, would the impact of one atomic artillery shell prove more effective than the present non-atomic artillery barrage?

And if the enemy isn't considerate enough to concentrate large masses of men and weapons in one area, it is just possible that even the new and improved, the larger, economy - sized atom bomb wouldn't knock him on his ears permanently.

ANYWAY, I GATHER that the military kinda wishes us taxpayers weren't so sold on the atom weapon as the ultimate haymaker. The enemy may be onery enough not to stand still sufficiently long in one spot to take the long count. At all odds, the atomic stockpile isn't going to do away with the necessity for the foot or the flying soldier in the foreseeable future. And we may have to continue doing it the hard way in Korea.

However, there is one note of cheer. The military believes the coming winter in Korea will be a lot harder on the enemy than on the United Nations troops. The first winter of the Korean war saw American soldiers and their U.N. confreres suffering the tortures of the damned from the awful weather and the unspeakable terrain through and over which they fought.

Warm clothing and equipment designed for the frigid, freezing Korean weather is being distributed and should prevent the terrible toll taken last winter by frostbite, a more implacable enemy than the North Koreans and Chinese "volunteers."

THE BRASS IS CONVINCED that the enemy, minus warm clothing, decent winter equipment and elementary sanitation, will be the prey of everything from frostbite to typhus.

But despite the fact it has spared nothing to give United Nations troops the best of winter equipment, the military isn't happy about another winter campaign in Korea. It isn't the fighting that worries it so much as possible public impatience with the long drawn-out war and public pressure for use of atomic weapons.

The brass may not show it, but it is as sensitive to public opinion as a weather vane.

School Levy Endorsed By Lions Club

American Democracy Subject of Talk By Business Executive

Endorsement of the four mill school levy and a speech on American democracy were the highlights of the Lions Club dinner Harding.
ding.

Members voted to back the levy which will appear on the ballot in the November election.

Wellington J. Griffith, business executive of Cincinnati and formerly of Tiffin, addressed the club on democracy in America. He has studied democracy as an avocation and is devoting about nine months to speaking before various organizations in an effort to interest people in democracy.

"Most people are stunned, confused and bewildered by current events, but tell themselves things will work out," the industrialist remarked. But things do not work out on their own accord; they have to be worked out by human minds, he pointed out.

Who Will Work Them Out?

The question today is by whom will they be worked out. He went on to say that citizens had been lulled into inactivity by various groups, resulting in one group being against another.

Mr. Griffith compared government expenditures in the period from George Washington through Franklin D. Roosevelt with expenditures in the period from 1944 to the present. The figure for the former period is estimated at $180 billion and for the latter at $332 billion.

"The power of taxation is also the power to destroy in any government," said the executive. "Bureaucracies and government agencies result from taxation, leading to a new type of government."

Education Needed

Mr. Griffith urged that a program of education in democracy be set up in the schools, not only through books, but also through actual practice.

In conclusion the speaker stated that democracy will remain if citizens learn democracy and pass it on to their children.

Robert Cripps, chairman of the Lions bazaar, gave the final report on proceeds of the bazaar held in September.

Guests were Erwin C. Baum of Elyria, special representative of Lions Clubs; Lester L. Dickey, superintendent of Marion city schools, and Dewey Bohyer, athletic director of Marion city schools.

Church Men's Club Hears Talk on Alaska

"Seward's Folly" was the topic of a talk by Richard Anderson, assistant to the director of the Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus, last night at the October meeting of the Presbyterian Men's Club in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church.

More than 90 members and guests heard Mr. Anderson tell of his own experiences while living in Alaska for several years as West Coast resident geologist for the Aluminum Company of America.

Officers for the year chosen at the meeting are E. L. Mitchell, president; William Coffman, vice president; Thomas Pake, second vice president; Gene Hudson, secretary; and Ralph Howard, treasurer.

Judge Charles B. Zimmerman of the Ohio Supreme Court was announced as guest speaker for the next meeting, Nov. 19.

Same Leaders

This year's Red Feather chairmen, without exception, are the same volunteers who headed the campaign last year, a check of personnel reveals. Voicing their faith in the Community Chest as a community need, all volunteered their services for this year.

In the parade, colorful with Red Feather banners and the bright uniforms of the band, were representatives of the various Community Chest agencies, Boy and Girl Scouts in uniform and the more than 100 workers and individuals interested in the victory drive.

For the report meeting Friday, Mrs. J. A. McGlew will preside and on Oct. 23, the luncheon chairman will be Mrs. John Waddell. Both are head of the women's division, of which Mrs. B. H. Buettin is steering chairman. For the victory dinner, set for 6 p.m. Oct. 25, the chairman will be Paul Felder.

Dr. Kellogg Talks at School Of Religion

Methodist's Lima District Leader Speaks on Freedom

Freedom, called "an adventure in living within the realm of your faith," was the theme upon which Dr. Harold F. Kellogg, Lima District superintendent, Methodist Church, centered his talk at the Marion County School of Religion Monday night. He spoke at the forum hour preceding the class period, at First E.U.B. Church. His topic was "The Prospect for Freedom."

This was the third session of the school which is meeting on Monday nights in October. Final session will be next week.

Rev. Evan R. Owens of Prospect Street Methodist Church, dean of the school, presided and introduced the speaker. Rev. William Reeves of Wesley Methodist Church gave Scripture and prayer.

Tells of Conference

Just returned from a country-wide meeting at Chicago, the National Family Life Conference of the Methodist Church, attended by church couples who are parents of families, Dr. Kellogg gave a short account of the conference findings. In line with his thoughts on the "prospect for freedom, he pointed out that church families are concerned about this country "losing our inheritance of freedom in a net of gambling, liquor, and crime."

Referring to the popular concept of the "four freedoms," he made the statement that freedom of religion has become largely freedom from religion. Freedom from certain wants and from certain fears is desirable, but the freedoms have become freedom to do as one pleases, regardless of consequences to others.

Freedom Linked With Faith

Our freedom goes as far as our faith in living goes, he said. If our faith in others is limited, we lose a certain freedom through our prejudices, we lose our freedom by default in various ways, by irresponsibility, by neglect, he said. The limiting of our freedom thus can eventually crush us. Acceptance of discipline is the challenge of freedom. In St. John's Gospel it is given form in "Know the truth and the truth shall make you free." Again, "the slave abideth not in the house, but the son abideth ever." Being "at home" in the world is freedom. It is our task somehow to make the world that homelike place in which all people are free, he said.

Russia Threatens Norway for Aid To Pact Defense

LONDON, Oct. 16—(UP)—Russia formally threatened reprisals today if Norway permits the North Atlantic pact organization to establish bases on Spitzbergen and Bear Islands.

The Soviets charged that Norway already has violated a nine-power treaty by agreeing to place the two strategic Arctic islands within the "competence" of the commander of the western defense forces.

The baby was found in a pasteboard box on the living room couch surrounded by old clothes which were to keep the box from falling over.

There were power tools, saw, drills, band saws and other equipment in the home valued at $500. Amos had been making regular payments on these items officers reported.

Amos made his living by collecting cardboard and other scrap at the dump. He brought most of it to his home to bale before attempting to sell it. The family received no help from welfare agencies, police reported.

When investigating officers went to the home yesterday they found the children eating dry breakfast food.

Oil Dispute In 2nd Round Before U.N.

Mossadegh Readies Another Speech Attacking British

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—(AP)—Britain and Iran moved into the second round of discussion of their oil dispute before the U. N. security council today, still sharply at odds over settlement.

Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh worked through last night on another installment of his speech attacking British handling of oil in Iran. Security council officials said that if a solution can be hammered out in the council, it will take at least another meeting tomorrow to do it.

Today's session at the Flushing Meadow meeting hall is scheduled for 3 p.m.

The Iranian premier made his first appearance before a jammed council session yesterday. He spoke for almost 15 minutes in forceful, emphatic French before turning over to an aide the burden of his hour-long argument that Britain has exploited the South Iran oil fields, and that the oil dispute is no business of the security council.

Unemotional

For the crowded chamber and the American television audience, Mossadegh displayed none of the emotional outbursts which characterize his speeches at home. He read his prepared statement slowly and calmly. There was not a tear, not a faint.

Mossadegh said he would speak today on a revised resolution the British have submitted calling for new talks. The British withdrew an earlier resolution implying censure of Iran.

His statement yesterday, Mossadegh said, was directed at the earlier resolution.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb said he would have to wait for Mossadegh's new statement before he could present his final argument.

Jebb said of Mossadegh's accusations against the Anglo-Iranian oil company that "some are false, some are exaggerated." He also denied the Iranian's charges that Britain used force against Iran.

A handshake meeting between Jebb and Mossadegh, arranged by U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie in his office after the session, failed to make peace.

Two Burglaries Occur in Galion

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 16—Two burglaries in Galion last night, one amounting to $75 and the other to 75 cents, are being investigated by police. Both entries were made through rear windows.

Between $75 and $80 was taken from a hiding place in the Sweet Garden, a candy and lunch shop on Harding Way East. The store was entered after a back window was removed.

The Quality Coal Co. office on East Church street was entered after glass was broken out of a rear window. The burglar, or burglars, made off with a loot of only 75 cents.

Hurricane Breaks Up, New One Is Spotted

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 16—(AP)—Storm warnings were displayed today from Cape Hatteras in North Carolina to the Virginia capes as a 70-80 mile-an-hour hurricane prowled Atlantic waters 230 miles off the East Coast.

This new hurricane, the tenth of the season, sprang up yesterday 400 miles east of Jacksonville, Fla., and by 5 a. m. (EST) today it was southeast of Cape Hatteras.

Meanwhile, the Weather Bureau and Navy hurricane hunter planes continued to keep a close watch on the disturbance in the Caribbean sea south of Miami. After reaching hurricane force Sunday, the storm broke up yesterday.

Decision Due On Jessup

WASHINGTON, Oct 16—(AP)—Amid doubtful prospects for Senate action, a foreign relations subcommittee called a meeting today to consider what to do about the nomination of Philip C. Jessup to be a U.N. delegate.

The closed session was arranged originally as one at which the five-man group would vote, but Jessup last night accepted an invitation to testify again and said he could not do so before tomorrow.

DEWEY SCHEDULES TALK

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 16—(AP) — Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York will deliver what has been scheduled as a major address on foreign policy tonight at a banquet concluding the annual two-day convention of the Connecticut State Bar Association. His address will be broadcast over a nationwide radio network (ABC) starting at 8:30 p.m. E.S.T.

Canton Repository Wins Inland Press Group Merit Award

CHICAGO, Oct. 16—(AP)—Twenty-one daily newspapers from nine states today were given "awards of merit" in the local government news contest of the Inland Daily Press Association.

The contest was conducted by the School of Journalism of the University of Wisconsin. Certificates of "distinguished achievement" were presented.

No over all winner was named because of varying sizes of the competing newspapers. Entries were divided into five classes on the basis of circulation.

The merit awards included: Class D (25,000-75,000): Canton (O.) Repository, First.

Judge Speaks At Epworth Dedication

"Dedication to Service" was the theme of Judge Henry A. Middleton of the Ohio Supreme Court when he spoke here at dedication Sunday of the new Epworth Methodist Church educational unit. The service was held at the morning worship hour.

This recently completed program of rebuilding the church basement rooms makes Epworth Church one of the best equipped in the denominations Ohio Area. In honor of the dedication, flower bouquet arrangements were placed in the church by friends, including firms which did work in connection with the extensive remodeling program.

Judge Middleton spoke on dedication of the church to Christ to fulfill His mission. His message emphasized love in the hearts of the people for Christ and His Cause, and the church, and those who learn and worship there, and he called on each one to become truly "acquainted with God."

Special music was by the choir, directed by George W. Lane. Following the service, the congregation went through the rooms to see the improvements, and "many expressed satisfaction with what had been done and appreciation of those who had carried the program through," Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor, stated.

Provided was new space for classes, new offices and kitchen with adequate equipment for the social life of the church, stage in the auditorium-dining room, new system of heating, ventilation, and electricity, and other conveniences for the comfort of pupils and audiences.

The service of dedication with expression of praise and giving of thanks to God, with words spoken responsively by pastor and people, was climaxed by the prayer of dedication by Dr. Busler.

Local Men Attend Convention Of Telephone Assoc.

Six officials of the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. in Marion are attending a three-day national convention of the United States Independent Telephone Association being held at Chicago.

They include: C. E. Williams, president; Robert M. Wopat, vice president; H. J. Vrooman, secretary-treasurer; R. H. Henderson, auditor; T. L. Berg, general commercial superintendent; and R. E. Coffman, general traffic superintendent.

The convention opened Monday and will conclude tomorrow. More than 6,000 independently owned and operated telephone companies are members of the association.

MISS SEWER CLEANER. Looks as curvaceous as any beauty queen—except for the rubber boots,—Miss Gaylia Davis (above) of Detroit, has been selected as "Miss Sewer Cleaner of 1952." "It may be a soggy title but if it helps my career I don't care," said the 17-year-old brunet who has a 23-inch waist, 34-inch bust and 35-inch hips.

Bill Increases Benefits For Rail Workers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—(AP)—The Senate has passed and sent to the House — where a rival measure was due for consideration today—a bill to increase railroad retirement benefits 15 percent.

The measure passed the Senate yesterday on a voice vote. Railroad workers have a retirement program separate from social security, in which they do not participate.

Besides the 15 percent boost in retirement pay, the Senate provisions included:

1. Benefits for survivors equal to those under social security.
2. Pensions for spouses of retired railroaders, up to $40 a month.
3. Raising the taxable base from the present first $300 of monthly wage to $350.

candidate in the 1936 G.O.P. nominating convention, and in 1940 was one of three leading candidates swept aside by the successful nomination drive of the late Wendell L. Willkie.

In 1944 Taft stepped aside in favor of John W. Bricker, now junior senator from Ohio. Bricker ran for vice president as the running mate of New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Taft made his strongest bid at the convention in Philadelphia three years ago. The Dewey forces were in command, however, and the nomination went to the New Yorker on the second ballot.

Taft was the chief architect of the Republican-dominated 80th Congress. To many—including President Truman—he, rather than Dewey, personified opposition to the fair deal's domestic and foreign policies alike.

Attended Harvard

Taft was educated in his Uncle Horace Taft's private school in Connecticut, at Yale — he was head of the class of 1910—and at Harvard law school.

He was in private law practice in his home town, Cincinnati, Ohio, when World War One came. He volunteered for the Army, was turned down for nearsightedness and took a legal post with Herbert Hoover's U. S. food administration.

Taft returned to the private practice of law in 1922. He also went into active politics, winning election at once to the Ohio state legislature, in which he served until 1932.

In 1938 Taft ran for the U. S. Senate and was elected to his first term with a plurality of 172,000 votes over a staunchly new deal opponent.

Those were the years leading up to World War Two. Taft voted first for, later against, repeal of this country's neutrality laws. He also was an opponent of selective service and lend-lease. Almost from the first, he was a leading foe of most of the new deal's domestic program.

Reelected in 1944, Taft steadily increased in legislative influence. His was one of the decisive voices in the quick repeal of price control and similar emergency legislation after World War Two.

Republicans gained control of the 80th Congress and Taft served as chairman of the G.O.P. steering committee in the Senate.

He sponsored three principal social measures of his own, to give federal aid to housing, education and health services.

But his most controversial piece of legislation, passed over President Truman's veto, was the Taft-Hartley Law, curbing the activities of labor unions.

This brought Taft the enmity of many union leaders, but it solidified his support among certain business and other elements.

Sought To Get Him

Last fall, when he sought election to a third Senate term, most big labor unions united in an all-out effort to beat him.

Taft confounded his detractors by rolling up a huge plurality—more than 400,000—over his labor-backed Democratic opponent, State Auditor Joseph Ferguson.

Taft's stand on the great questions of the day is sometimes forthright, sometimes hard to state in a few words.

He has consistently opposed "lavish" government spending and what he regards as "Socialistic" programs of all kinds.

Yet he has sponsored legislation giving federal aid in fields—housing, for instance—where he feels private enterprise can't do the job.

Taft has backed foreign aid proposals, although on a far smaller scale than the Truman administration has proposed.

He declared his support of U. S. intervention in Korea, once it was an accomplished fact, although he declared that the President had no power to use troops for that purpose.

In this year's "great debate" on foreign policy, Taft took sides with Gen. Douglas MacArthur and favored more aggressive conduct of the war. He opposed the sending of new ground troops to Europe on the theory that it was more likely to provoke war with Russia than to make Western Europe safe from aggression.

He has called for a much larger air force. Taft contends that the present administration has spent billions for defense without insuring the nation's security.

Injured Man Wins Claim

Allowed Compensation From State of Ohio

A verdict was returned yesterday by Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith in favor of Charles G. Oehler of near LaRue in a claim against the Industrial Commission of Ohio.

The hearing was the result of an eye injury suffered by Mr. Oehler Sept. 23, 1943 while employed by the Ohio Department of Highways. A foreign particle struck him in the eye during his work as a mower, ditcher and equipment operator. He said the eye injury aggravated a heart condition and caused him to be disabled.

On May 14, 1945, he filed an application with the commission for a payment of medical expenses which the commission granted. Then on Feb. 10, 1949, he filed an application for further compensation and the commission refused the application, saying he was not eligible to participate in the Workmen's Compensation act since he was an employe of the state.

His attorney, Thomas F. Joseph of Martins Ferry, filed the suit in Marion County Common Pleas Court. The ruling returned yesterday by Judge Smith says Mr. Oehler has the right to participate in the compensation program.

U. S. Masterminded Revolt, Peron Claims

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 16—(AP)—President Juan D. Peron called on all "good Argentines" last night to help hunt down "agents of our enemies." He accused the United States of masterminding last month's abortive attempt to topple his government.

Peron unleashed his blast in a nationwide radio speech heralded as the first in a series intended to explain the brief Sept. 28 military uprising.

The revolt, he declared, had been directed from the U. S. with the help of elements in "neighboring countries" amply supplied with dollars.

He spoke as a bill decreeing the death penalty for officers rebelling against the government was in process of passage by Congress.

DOCK STRIKE SPREADING

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—(AP)—A mushrooming wildcat strike of dock workers has halted defense shipping from the Brooklyn Army Base, one of the nation's major troop embarkation and military supply depots. Union leaders, who blamed the walkout on Communists, indicated they were powerless to end the dispute.

WRECKED AIRLINER FOUND

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Oct. 16—(AP)—The burned-out wreckage of a South African Airways plane, missing with 17 persons aboard, was spotted from the air today in mountains about 100 miles southwest of Durban. No sign of life was seen.

Taft

tion has "no intelligent program" to halt the spread of communism, and that it is making an effort with plans that "change from day to day."

The Ohioan told a Founders' Day banquet of the Michigan Republican party that election of a Republican president "alone offers hope and leadership." He added:

"Never in our times will we see, as crucial an election as that of next year. You must decide then whether we continue to its logical conclusion our present policies toward totalitarian government and war, or whether we turn again to American principles and resume our progress in freedom and peace."

Taft bid unsuccessfully for his party's presidential nomination in 1940, when it went to Wendell Willkie, of Indiana, and in 1948 when Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York got the nod for the second time.

Taft has said he wouldn't be a candidate unless convinced in advance that he had a good chance of coming out on top at the Chicago nominating convention in June.

Ike Gets Button

At his European headquarters yesterday, Eisenhower was presented with an Ike-For-President button and replied simply: "Thank you very much."

The button was handed to the general by Lester Allen, chief editorial writer for the Boston Post. Allen was one of 16 visiting newsmen who launched with Eisenhower.

The buttons and a letter plugging Eisenhower for president are being circulated by Leonard Cafritz, an Arkansas druggist.

Scouts for both Eisenhower and Taft were openly bidding for support at a regional conference of western Republicans in Seattle. California boosters put out feelers for Gov. Earl Warren, Dewey's running mate in 1948.

On the Democratic side, there were indications that a call might go out today for a meeting of the national committee — probably about Nov. 1—to name a successor to William M. Boyle, Jr., as national chairman.

Boyle, who resigned Saturday night for what he said were reasons of health, entered Georgetown University hospital here for a checkup.

Royal Pair Off To Winnipeg

KAPUSKASING, Ont., Oct. 16—(AP)—This bush country paper-mill town left the starch out of its rousing welcome to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh last night.

Instead, the working-man town officials took the hard-traveling royal visitors to the paper mill, staged an informal party, and gave them plenty of time to get to bed early.

Mayor A. M. Stevenson, foreman of the mill which is Kapuskasing's sole industry, said he realized the visitors needed rest after their crowded program.

Today the couple fly to Winnipeg to begin a 12-day jaunt through the western Canadian prairies and British Columbia.

MacArthur In Miami For Legion Talk

Another Attack Expected by General On Truman Policies

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 16—(AP)—A double feature starring Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the American Legion's colorful convention parade drew tens of thousands of spectators into the streets of Miami today.

MacArthur and the parade were the big show for the day as legionnaires put aside domestic and foreign policy matters for the bugles and drums and the tramp of marching feet.

The general and Mrs. MacArthur were scheduled to arrive shortly after noon to review the parade and take part in a belated dedication of the "MacArthur Causeway" named in honor of the general. Tomorrow he will deliver the major address to the Legion convention.

The weatherman predicted good weather although a storm which seemed to be dying out in the Caribbean began to pick up steam.

But it wasn't close enough to cause any immediate alarm or change the parade plans. Three years ago the Legion parade was caught in a pouring rain which almost washed out the whole show.

MacArthur's speech tomorrow was expected to be another attack on the domestic and foreign policies of the Truman administration. The general was reported to have prepared a 45-minute address—one of the longest since he was relieved of his Far Eastern commands last April by President Truman in a dispute over the conduct of the Korean war.

Last night, Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia told legionnaires the American people will demand stronger military action in Korea unless the Reds show good faith in the Kaesong truce talks.

He said the "master plotters in the Kremlin" may touch off another world war which will envelop Moscow itself if Kaesong is used as a "cloak for treachery."

Sims Bros. To Rebuild

Sims Brothers, junk dealers of South Prospect street, have been issued a building permit for the construction of a storage room and office at their junk yard to replace one destroyed in a $200,000 fire July 20.

The new building is to be constructed of cement block with a steel roof. The estimated cost is $10,000.

Construction is to begin immediately.

Baby

week-old Lawrence James Lyons disappeared from his crib.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lyons, waited with waning hope that their pleas and rewards totaling more than $2,000 would bring their baby back to them alive and well.

Police were pessimistic about the missing nurse angle, but they asked the FBI to look for her.

The nurse, who name was withheld, was fired Saturday by a Michigan City doctor. She left a note for her daughter that she had gone to Milwaukee.

John Boehlein, a Michigan City machinist, told police he saw a woman carrying a bundle leave the hospital nursery about 5 p.m. and get on the elevator. He said she was not the nurses' aid on duty on the floor, and it was established that she was not the mother of twins who left the hospital at about that time.

The lie detector tests were started yesterday in the hope of clearing up "muddled reports of the exact time the baby disappeared from the busy fourth floor of the hospital.

The baby, the Lyons' first child, was born by caesarean section last Tuesday. Lyons, 42, a filling station operator, has a 19-year-old daughter by a previous marriage.

PAKISTANI LEADER SHOT

LONDON, Oct. 16—(AP)—Pakistani prime minister Liaquat Ali Khan was shot and wounded while addressing a public meeting in Rawalpindi, a British government spokesman said today. Rawalpindi is in the Pakistani Punjab, near the border of Kashmir, the former princely state over which India and Pakistan are quarrelling bitterly.

"I feel like the most awful heel' she said But—out—I don't see how I possibly can appear at that party in an expensive outfit such as you were describing'

There was such desperation in her face and voice that I caught back the reply which was on my lips and substituted a quiet suggestion

'Suppose you sit down here—and tell me all about it,' I said 'I can tell that something is troubling you deeply, and there are two things which I can assure you One anything you say to me will be held as a sacred confidence No one else will know it Second it always helps to talk a proolem ove Sometimes, in the talking, an unexpected light shines'

'No light can shine for me," she said hopelessly

'You cannot possibly know that I told her crisply "I'm standing ready to switch on the light Please tell me why you're sure it cannot shine for you"

She gulped, swallowed, then faced me a bit defiantly

Because' she said, 'if I appear in public in such extravagant outfit, I shall be branded as a liar and virtually a thief, by everybody who knows me at college"

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

I was watching nervously for Mildred Grey's reaction to my announcement of my father's wish concerning evening outfits, and saw that Bill also was looking intently at her I saw her open her lips to speak then saw them close again as the excited Oh, Boys!" of Hank, Roderick and Junior came to my ears, and Bess Conway ejaculated· "It that isn't something for the books!"

Then she put a question to me and there was such impassioned pleading in it that I regretted having to answer it with an affirmative

Is that a command of your father's?" she asked

I am afraid it is" I said 'He was most insistent in his directions'

May — may I speak to you alone about it?" she asked next, and involuntarily I sent a glance of appeal to Dicky, for I knew that his must be the decision He represented my father in this undertaking I was attending only to details

Dicky's reply was prompt, an emphatic nod of assent and I rose from my chair, beckoning to Mildred

We'll go 'nto the next room " I told her, and then sent a purposely mischievous look at Bess Conway

'Perhaps the boys can give you some ideas on the outfit you will select I told her, and Hank cocked an impudent eyebrow at me

"What I'd like to know," he said is how much Bill and I get for the latest thing in white tails"

'You might write and ask the Chief' I told him He didn't give me any instructions about outfitting the men of the party But perhaps your uncle can give you some information

Plenty,' Dicky said as Mildred and I moved toward the door of the adjoining bedroom "New ties, handkerchiefs and socks, shoes perhaps But suits—nix I'm not getting any, and mine is of older vintage than yours"

'That's what comes of giving women the vote' Hank declined bitterly, and the laughter of the others followed Mildred and me across the threshold of the bedroom

"I wish I could laugh," she

100 Attend - Banquet Of LaRue P.-T.A.

Special to The Star

LARUE, Oct. 16—Mrs. Mary Lou Pfeiffer, home director for radio station WRFD, Worthington, was the guest speaker at the Parent-Teacher Association's annual banquet Thursday night at the school auditorium.

Following the invocation spoken by Rev. Leland Wiley, pastor of the LaRue Methodist Church, a chicken dinner was served to approximately one hundred persons. During the dinner hour, music was offered by the High School Boys Glee Club under the direction of Glen Johnson with Martha Hoagland at the piano. They sang "Old Man River," "My Own America," "Stouthearted Men" and "The Halls of Ivy."

Dr. R. A. Dietrich served as toastmaster for the program which opened with a men's quartet composed of Rev. Sam Wood, Ralph Amstutz, Walter Cluff and Ivan Cooper singing "Dear Old Girl" and "I've Got a Robe." Mrs. William Stanbro sang "Mighty Lak a Rose" and "I Love a Little Cottage." Her accompanist was Mrs. Paul Lightfoot.

Mrs. Pfeiffer's subject was "You and the U.N." As her guest was Mrs. Maire Rouvali, a native of Finland who is now studying at Ohio State University as an exchange student. She spoke on her native country and answered questions from the audience about Finland. The president of the association, Mrs. Ivan Cooper, expressed her appreciation to her committees and the Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Wood, pastor of the LaRue Baptist Church. County Superintendent and Mrs. D. T. Mills were also guests.

Mrs. C. R. Hecker served as chairman of the kitchen committee and Mrs. Lenole Parish of the dining room. The program for the November meeting will be given by persons living in the school district north of the New York Central Railroad.

Marysville Youth Causes Accident But Wins Prize

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 16—Seldom does anyone cause an accident and still win money for doing it. But that's what Jon Greeneisen, 18, of Marysville did at the National Future Farmers of America Convention last week.

The youth won the public speaking contest in Kansas City with his talk, "I Caused an Accident." He received a gold medal and a cash prize of $250.

Young Greeneisen, now a freshman in the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University, is a three-time winner. He won the state contest last March and walked away with honors again in the regional contest in August at Ames, Ia., to qualify for national competition.

Jon was graduated from Marysville High School last spring. At Ohio State, he is taking courses in agricultural journalism and works part time on the Agricultural Extension Service's noon program, "The Ohio Farm and Home Hour," aired over the campus radio station.

Marion Woman To Visit Columbus For Ohio Poetry Day

Mrs. Lewis Wills of 233 East Walnut street will attend Poetry Day observance Saturday at the Southern Hotel in Columbus. Last year, she received special recognition at the annual dinner meeting there for her original poems appearing in book form as "Gems from the Heart." In the last several years her poems have received special awards in Federated Clubs literature contests. She won honorable mention for poetry in 1947 contest, a first award for "Resignation" in 1948, and a second for "Admonition" in 1949.

Ohio Poetry Day was set for the third Friday in October each year by act of the Ohio General Assembly. This is to honor poets of the state, and the day is set aside for special study of poetry in the public schools. Culminating the observance is an annual banquet, set on Saturday to permit educators to attend. A program this year will include a talk by Dr. J. L. King of Denison University, a choral group from St. Mary of the Springs College in Columbus to sing, and introduction of poets who have had books published in the last year.

Officers of the Ohio Poetry Day Association are Dr. Virginia Sanderson of Ohio State University, Prof. Robert K. Marshall of Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware, Mrs. Alma L. Gray of Akron, and Dr. A. W. Elliot of Delaware, who is treasurer.

PROJECTS DISCUSSED

Projects were discussed when the Dorcas Circle of Central Christian Church met Thursday afternoon in the church parlor. Mrs. O. R. Cross opened the meeting. Members were urged to attend a Marion County Council of Church Women's meeting Wednesday at Epworth Methodist Church. At that time, a silver tea will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Ohio Council of Church Women. This year's projects include contribution of lightweight clothing, shoes, and pillow cases for Jamaica, sewing supplies and materials for Paraguay, and making of dresses for children and hospital gowns to be sent together with bandages to a leper colony. All day work meetings are held at the church the last Wednesday of each month. For a program, Mrs. Frank Fairchild, assisted by Mrs. Oscar Noe and Mrs. Ruth Lundquist presented "The Church To Speed His Call." Mrs. J. C. Hartsell led devotions, and Mrs. Francis Fairchild played a piano number. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Clayton Brobeck, Mrs. Avis Clark, Mrs. Francis Fairchild and Mrs. Frank Fairchild.

County Served By Community Chest Agencies

List U.S.O., Y.M.C.A., Scout Groups Among County-wide Activities

Services of the agencies in the Marion Community Chest are available to all county residents and most of them are used to some extent, a check of the records shows Several of the activities are far-reaching and of specific interest to residents of villages and communities in the county Of special interest at this time is the U S O as many Marion County men are now serving in the armed forces

While support of all agencies is asked workers in the county division are concentrating their efforts in raising the U S O allocation of $3 500

Other Agencies

Among the other agencies which serve on a county-wide scale are the Salvation Army Marion Girl Scouts Boy Scouts and the Y M C A A total of 67 families in the county were visited by the Salvation Army during the past year Forty-one of these actually received assistance, the number being generally spread over the entire county

There are 10 Girl Scout troops with an enrollment of 133 girls and 34 adults in Prospect, Moral, Green Camp, New Bloomington and LaRue and other troops are in the process of organization A number of Girl Scouts from smaller communities are registered in adjoining communities

One-hundred fifty-eight boys throughout the outlying villages and communities are interested in Boy Scouting and Cub activities These groups are located in Claridon, Prospect, Green Camp LaRue, New Bloomington and Waldo A troop is now being organized at Caledonia Most of the troops take a very active part in scouting activities and a large percentage attended Camp Otis during the past summer

Y Activities

At the Y M C A the record show that approximately 10 percent of the participants in Y activities come from the rural sections and towns in the county There are 28 specific activities of the Y especially set up for rural groups including the sponsorship of county basketball league assistance in 4-H Club work, county agricultural extension work soil conservation, farm institute and many others Club Co-Ed facilities also are available to all youths in the county

Galion Flower Show Features 135 Displays

Special to The Star

GALION — There were some 135 displays at the recent flower fruit and vegetable show, sponsored by the five Garden clubs of Galion at the Dickerson garage

Success of the show which was held Friday and Saturday is the impetus for plans for a chrysanthemum show which will be sponsored in a few weeks in business places of Galion

The recent exhibit was non-competitive and was in charge of Mrs Edward Sprow chairman and Mrs F E Firestone co-chairman Mrs Carl Freeman is chairman of the flower show board which is composed of representatives of the five clubs of Galion

Most unusual was the display by Mrs B E Place who had Anthuriums and a flora lei, flown here from Hawaii The lei and Anthuriums were sent by Mrs Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney to Mrs Place

Another display of interest was the paraffin flower plaques made by pupils of the fourth grade of the North School, taught by Mrs Robert Morgan

Mrs Clinton Kehler and Mrs Clifford Mains also had an exhibit of dried painted weeds of more than ordinary interest

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Wanna Buy a Drunken Duck?

Afternoon television, whatever else you can say about it, has an air of wonderfully engaging innocence about it. You get the idea they're making it all up as they go along, and consequently you can't blame the children if they stumble over the words from time to time, if the thoughts get a little misty and unreal.

Just the other day, I tuned in on Ed and Pegeen Fitzgerald, the philosophers of the breakfast table, in time to hear him explain earnestly to a bewildered guest: "You know the island we live on is completely surrounded by water." The guest chewed on this intelligence a moment and then plunged into a discussion of fire prevention in the home. On the same program Mrs Fitzgerald asked her husband if he thought Navy marriages were happier than Army marriages because sailors spent so much time at sea. No, said Ed thoughtfully, he didn't think absence made the heart grow fonder.

John Crosby

THAT'S THE WAY it goes on afternoon TV. One minute you hear about an island completely surrounded by water, the next minute you're up to your hips in profound reflections on the effect of prolonged absence on matrimony. You never know what's coming next. It may not be show business, it doesn't even resemble conversation exactly, but it has a sort of dreamlike charm — these giblets of wisdom and information. After partaking of the Fitzgeralds, who are generally credited with the invention of the multiple-sponsored marriage, I spent a profitable half-hour with another TV couple, Woody and Virginia Klose, who are on the same station (WJZ-TV in New York). They were discussing drunken ducks. "I don't think I've ever seen a drunken duck and I don't think I want to," said Mr Klose to Mrs Klose, closing the topic of drunken ducks, conceivably for all time.

But not the subject of drunkenness. Pretty soon, the Kloses welcomed their guest of the day, Isabel Leighton, who plunged right back into insobriety. "Very, very happy people don't get thoroughly plastered all the time," declared Miss Leighton among other things. These remarks are admittedly torn from their contexts which is unfair. But then it's hard to keep your attention from wandering during afternoon TV fare; you lose the thread and pretty soon you wake up and somebody's discussing drunken ducks.

IN OUR HOUSE we use the TV set like a hearth, a place to keep warm on cold fall afternoons. Well, I was dozing in front of this contemporary fireplace, warming my feet on Kate Smith one afternoon, when I woke up to find myself in the middle of a fashion show. A bunch of models in beachwear are parading back and forth. Miss Smith's guest, a fashion expert, was saying: "In the privacy of your own pool or patio the outer garment may be removed."

I fell right back asleep and dreamed about Miss Kate's millions of devoted women listeners all over the country divesting themselves of their outer garments in the privacy of their own pools or patios. There must be two or three babes around who don't own a pool or even a patio and they're stuck with that outer garment till the right millionaire comes along. After all, television is for the masses, not for the unprivileged few who haven't got patios.

WHY, IT WAS JUST the other day that Carmel Myers, the silent film star who now has her own TV show, was telling one of her guests about what fun they had on the set in the old days, which is to say, back when they kept the money. It was a nice little anecdote. A director had driven her to a restaurant in his Cadillac. When the doorman asked him what to do with the car, the director said, 'Keep it.' No one ever saw the car again. Or the doorman either.

FOREST LAWN CIRCLE MEETS

Cardington Back 2nd-Top Scorer In State

Through the SPORTSCOPE with A.L. McCLAIN

THOSE TUMBLING WALLS. Since taking Woody Hayes and his O.S.U. footballers to task for blundering into defeat against Michigan State we have suddenly taken to walking down alleys to escape the wrath of loyal scarlet and gray rooters.

To say the "walls have come tumbling down" is putting it mildly. And we don't blame them a bit. Loyalty is a wonderful thing.

But we would like to clear up one false impression.

LIVE AND LET LIVE. For the record we are not howling for Hayes' scalp or handing out "Goodbye Woody" pamphlets. With income taxes going up almost another 12 percent and the world situation the way it is, far be it from us to jeopardize another man's job.

Actually it was the misforming accounts of the game that we objected to. Marion followers who were unable to see the contest were led to believe the Bucks were lucky to make the score so close.

Nothing could be further from the truth. We state again O.S.U. SHOULD have won.

LOYAL TO OHIO. Since the column we have been accused of rooting for Michigan State. Ask anyone who sat within eight rows of seats from us and they will tell you our loyalty went to the Bucks.

As for our criticism of Hayes' pass defense, look at the records. Their percentage must be the lowest in the nation among big name colleges.

Woody Hayes is a good coach and we predict he will be around a long time. But the jump from little Denison and Miami is a big one and he has a lot to learn about Big Ten football. Particularly pass defense.

Against Fred Benners of S.M.U. it is understandable, but Al Dorow of the Spartans is not one of the best in the business. The sophomore who tossed the winning TD in the dying minutes or M.S.C. was throwing his first aerial in college competition.

DEFENSE STANDS. So we rest our defense, customers. Now can we come out and stop walking down alleys? ? ?

Still Trying To Win Title Says Aging Joe Louis

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Oct. 16—(AP)—As long as either Jersey Joe Walcott or Ezzard Charles is heavyweight champion, Joe Louis will keep on chasing after the golden crown.

The old Brown Bomber made that clear today as he resumed practice for his Oct. 26 10-rounder with undefeated Rocky Marciano in Madison Square Garden.

"I don't know how long that's going to be, but I'll be waiting. I'm going to stick around while either one of them is champion. I can beat them," he said.

"Of course if some 23-year-old kid comes along and wins the title somehow, then I guess I'll have to call it quits," said Joe with a grin. "'Cause then, by the time I get a shot, my grey beard will be hanging around my knees."

Louis was 37 on May 13. Walcott turned 37 on Jan. 31 according to the record books but there are many in the business who believe he is past 40. Charles is 30.

Half Million Dollar Atomic Energy Gadget Not So Well Known

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—(AP)—Rice Institute, which has 1,000 students and a 70,000 seat stadium, offers proof that it isn't just a football factory in the fact that seven members of the squad are on the dean's list of superior students . . . That's quite a contrast to colleges where most of the gridders are on the dean's list of guys to be watched—and warned—before they bust out of school . . . Rice's specially bright prospect is Richard Chapman, 6-foot-5, 214-pound sophomore tackle, who is something extra as a physics student . . . And Publicitor Bill Whitmore adds the comment: "They've got a $500,000 gadget here to fool around with atomic energy experiments of some sort, though I must admit the stadium is a lot better known."

Al Cartwright, the Wilmington, Del., sports scribe, reports overhearing this conversation between two other experts during the final game of the World Series: . . . . "Hank Thompson leaves much to be desired in right field" . . . . "Yeah, about the only thing he doesn't leave to be desired is Hartung."

* * *

U. of Miami footballers are beginning to think Purdue's Dale Samuels must be their kinfolk. Last year they intercepted six of his passes, this year four. Dale didn't do so badly at that. Chuck Conerly, one of the top pro passers, pitched five right into the hands of Chicago Cardinal players Sunday. . . . It probably wasn't with intentional humor that Murray Goodman, the I.B.C. tub-thumper, referred to Rocky Marciano as "a finely chiseled, finished fistic product." . . . But you know how much chiseling takes place in the fight racket. Pete Dorset, who never weighed much more than 150 pounds when he quarterbacked the Cornell varsity, was dropped into his own weight class as assistant coach of the Cornell 150-pond team . . . Pete is attending law school . . . Buddy Parker, the Detroit Lions' coach, has a pet superstition of always wearing a clean white shirt while directing his team during games. At least its a change from guys who won't change their clothes during a winning streak.

Em Tunnell, the football Giants defensive halfback who ran back one high 82 yards for a touchdown, set up another score with a 31-yard runback and galloped 3½ yards when a Cardinal field goal try fell short, was sick all last week and complained on the bench that his knees felt weak. What probably sent him to the hospital right after the game was a photographer who was waiting. In the end one when Em completed his twisting touchdown run. As Em crossed the goal line, the shutter-snapper barked, "Hey, Tunnell, smile, will you?

Henthorne Tallies 126 Points in Five Games

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16—(AP)—The ball-toting stars who get the ball across enemy goal lines are beginning to shine on Ohio's high school football fields.

The Buckeye realm has plenty of pigskin jewels this year whose sparkle will catch the eye of college mentors seeking talent in this most fruitful of happy hunting grounds.

A year ago Doug Goodsell of Upper Arlington led the state's point-getters with 199, and next Saturday you'll see him, as a freshman, toting the ball for Ohio State against Indiana.

With five games out of the way, Hubert Bobo of little Chauncey-Dover is setting the pace for the current campaign with 138, following his 33-point spree Friday against Belpre.

Bill Henthorne of Cardington, who wheeled over with four touchdowns against Centerburg, has 126 for five tilts, good for the second spot. Either of the two leaders can eclipse Goodsell's mark by maintaining his present pace.

Has 14 T.D.s

Other hot-shots include Jack Furderer, Dayton Chaminade halfback who set a new city record of 114 last season, and has 84 already chalked up on 14 touchdowns in five tilts; and Bob Arnold of Canton Lehman who has 72 points.

On the pass-pitching end, Bobby Lakes of unbeaten Hamilton is one of the standouts The youngster has tossed 16 touchdown aerials.

From here and there: first losses of the season were dished out last week to Cincinnati Purcell, Sandusky, Hubbard, Youngstown Wilson and Cuyahoga Falls . . . Teams boasting five-game winning streaks, but failing to land in the "top 10" include Zanesville, New London, Bellevue, Wintersville, Delaware Wills, London, Dublin, Ashland, Loudonville, Harrison, Norwood, Washington (Portsmouth), Wellston, Cardington and Chauncey-Dover.

Elm Valley Wins, Loses

Elm Valley played two games in two days, beating Mt. Gilead, 13-6, Friday and losing, 32-12, to Butler Saturday.

Fifth-place Middletown and eighth-place Lima Central tangle this week in one of the top games . . . Long runs were plentiful around the state capital as Bob Haines of Grandview went 93 against Mt. Vernon, Neil O'Harra of St. Charles returned a punt for 88, and Ben Fath of Aquinas breezed 80 against Columbus Central.

In that battle of unbeatens between Sandusky and Fremont Ross, the former scored 14 points in the first nine minutes but Fremont came back to win 19-14 on great performances by John (Big Thunder) Lewis and Jerome (Little Thunder) Surratt, aided by Guard Dick Burkett.

(Here's how Ohio sports editors and radio commentators rate the state's high school football teams after last weekend's games (first place votes in parentheses, points on 10-9-8-etc. basis.)

Cartier In Early Kayo

BOSTON Oct. 16 — (AP)—Adonis-like Walter Cartier's campaign for a crack at Sugar Ray Robinson's middleweight boxing title took on added momentum today as a result of his 48-second knockout of Joe Rindone, heretofore durable Bostonian.

The photogenic Cartier, from New York's Greenwich Village, startled a slim 3,836 Boston Garden crowd with his terrific punching power while knocking out a local favorite so early in the first round of their scheduled 10-rounder.

Bucks Not Underrating Indiana Despite Record

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16—(AP)—Take from Coach Woody Hayes, Ohio State's football team isn't underestimating the Hoosiers of Indiana come next Saturday.

"This is one Indiana needs to get back near the top," Hayes told his weekly gathering with newsmen yesterday, "and we're not underestimating 'em." Then he added:

"A victory wouldn't hurt us, either."

Talking over Ohio's 6-6 contest with Wisconsin, Hayes said,

"Pretty Lucky"

"We were pretty lucky up there. We have no alibi for not winning. In fact, we feel that Wisconsin, in allowing us to pick up two fumbles and intercept two passes, was very helpful to us."

"We are disappointed, of course," Hayes went on, "but we are not discouraged after winning, losing and tying in our first three games. We felt at the start of the season we were being overrated. Getting organized with a new system and a flock of new boys is tough.

"We have been suffering from growing pains, and no team has met three tougher opponents than we have. Southern Methodist, which we beat in the opener, is looking better and better. There are no passers like that Fred Benners of S.M.U. and I still wake up in a cold sweat when I dream of him Every coach in the country is trying to map a defense to stop the boy, but he continues to be phenomenal

Badger Defense

The only thing wrong with our offense against Wisconsin was Wisconsin's defense. They had us stopped pretty well. We had a lousy pass attack, gaining only 45 yards with it. Our timing was terrible on both our roll-out and pocket passing plays.

"We suffered no serious injuries, and we were not out of condition."

When Ohio and Indiana clash in the Buckeye horseshoe Saturday it will be televised as a "live" show in an area limited by Philadelphia, Omaha, Memphis and Milwaukee—but Ticket Director Ed Weaver of the Bucks said the telecast hasn't hurt the gate. He estimates a crowd of 75,000 or more

End Ray Hamilton and backs Vic Janowicz and John Hlay suffered minor hurts against Wisconsin, Hayes said, but he expects them to be ready for Indiana.

UMPIRES TO MEET

The 11th annual fall meeting of the Ohio State Umpires' Association will be held Saturday and Sunday at Alliance. The meeting will climax the group's work for the past year. Election of officers will be held.

"THE HAT" IN RING

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 16—(AP)—Harry (The Hat) Walker, former National League batting champion, has been named manager of the International League Rochester Red Wings, replacing Johnny Keane. Walker was playing manager of the Columbus team of the American Association this year.

NATIONALS WIN

ALBUQUERQUE, Oct. 16—(AP) — A hit-hungry bunch of National Leaguers rolled over an American League All-Star baseball team 11-3 last night. The Nationals jumped on Lou Kretlow of the Chicago White Sox for four runs and St. Louis' Jim McDonald for seven. Connie Ryan of Cincinnati tripled and Dixie Howell, also of the Reds, doubled.

Minor Bumps Slow Harding, St. Mary

By JOHN SHORT

Harding and St. Mary pulled through tough weekend games without serious injury. Minor ailments were reported but are expected to be healed by this week's gametime.

Harding's clash with the Findlay Trojans has been moved up to Thursday night, Dewey Bohyer, athletic director at Harding, announced today. The game has been rescheduled at the request of Findlay due to a district teachers' meeting being held for that area Friday.

Two Injuries

Only two injuries in the Prexy camp during the 8-6 verdict over Lima South Friday. Bill Winters suffered a bad eye cut in the first half, but treatment during the halftime intermission allowed him to return to action. Tom McClain suffered a nose injury which failed to stop him.

Coach Ray Robbins was not sure of his gridders' condition today. The Irish crew was given a holiday from practice last night and are to hold their first workout after the Saturday letdown tonight.

Dave Carr may be slowed down by a bad hip bruise. The Irish speedster suffered the bruise after repeated jaunts around and through the Columbus St. Mary line.

Slowed

Dave Smith, defensive specialist, who has been out of action for three weeks saw only a few minutes of play Saturday. He was slowed down by the sprained ankle. Dave Jackson, 160-pound end, suffered a bruised knee and is still limping

Robbins will be priming his charges for a shot at the Richwood Tigers Friday night at Harding Stadium The Tigers will take a record of two wins, a tie and a single loss into the game. The tie was a 6-6 battle with Marysville while the only loss came at the hands of powerful Cardington, 44-20.

Rumor Boudreau To Lead Red Sox

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16—(AP)—The Los Angeles Times said last night it has learned reliably that Lou Boudreau will become the manager of the Boston Red Sox, replacing Steve O'Neill.

The Times said Boudreau, manager of the Cleveland Indians from 1942 through 1950, will make sweeping changes and might consider selling slugger Ted Williams.

Boudreau joined the Red Sox last spring. O'Neill has managed the Boston club for the last two seasons.

The announcement of Boudreau's appointment is expected Nov. 10, The Times said.

Forest To Honor Dads at Game

Dads' Night will be celebrated Thursday when the undefeated but once-tied Columbus Grove Bulldogs play at Memorial Field. The two teams have played three common foes. The Bulldogs won over Delphos 27 to 0; Lafayette 31 to 13 and had a scoreless tie with Elida. Forest defeated Delphos 47 to 20; Lafayette 40 to 14 and won over Elida 31 to 7. The championship of the Northwest Conference may be at stake in this game.

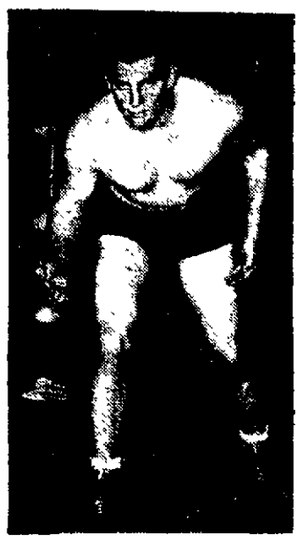
BIG BILL MILLER WRESTLES LaRANCE THURSDAY



BIG BILL MILLER

It looks like Mr. LaRance has gotten himself a big hunk of man to handle Thursday night at the Armory. Big Bill Miller, who stands 6 ft. 4 inches and weighs 250 lbs. says: "Give me LaRance and forget about any disqualifications." About every time Jules LaRance wrestles in Marion he is disqualified but next Thursday there will be no disqualifications because Big Bill is confident that he can take care of himself.

The balance of the card will be the best signed here in a long time. Roy "Professor" Shire returns after a long layoff to meet Irish McGee and Joe Scarpello wrestles Chris Belkas in the 8:30 opening match. The winner of the Scarpello-Belkas match gets a chance at the belt.

Cal Rated No. 1 College Grid Team

Tennessee 2nd; Spartans Fall To Third Place

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—(AP)—The Golden Bears of the University of California took over today as the No. 1 college football team in the land after threatening to hit the top for two weeks.

Coach Lynn "Pappy" Waldorf's men, winners of four straight this season, collected 1,129 points in the third weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters across the nation. They easily beat out Tennessee, the No. 2 team with 977, and Michigan State, No. 3, with 935.

Further, the Bears were voted the No. 1 spot on 50 of the 138 ballots cast, compared to 26 for Tenneessee and 16 for Michigan State, the leader in the first two polls.

New Members

Two new members joined the top ten. They were Princeton and Baylor, which took over the No. 9 and No. 10 spots, respectively. Others in the enarmed circle included Texas, No. 4; Georgia Tech, No. 5; Texas A. and M., No. 6; Maryland, No. 7, and Illinois, No. 8.

Notre Dame, the early-season surprise, and Ohio State, the pre-campaign favorite to win the Big Ten championship, both tumbled. The Buckeyes, held to a 6-6 standoff by Wisconsin Saturday, dropped to 17th, and Notre Dame, beaten 27-20, by Southern Methodist, plummeted to No. 21.

1. California (50) 1,129.
2. Tennessee (26) 977.
3. Michigan State (16) 935.
4. Texas (6) 719.
5. Georgia Tech (12) 689.
6. Texas A. and M. (8) 652.
7. Maryland (14) 634.
8. Illinois (3) 584.
9. Princeton (1) 221.
10. Baylor, 148.

CLARK GRIFFITH, 81-year-old president of the Washington Senators, tells a House committee investigating aspects of a monopoly in baseball, that he sees little hope of the Pacific Coast league becoming a third major loop in the near future. Commenting on players' salary disputes, he said he thought players should have the right to go before baseball Commissioner Ford Frick for settlement of such squabbles.

Kills Son With "Unloaded" Pistol

CLEVELAND, Oct. 16—(AP)—A young father playing cowboys with his two-year-old son killed the boy last night with a borrowed pistol which he believed was unloaded.

The victim was Dale Ferry, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Ferry. The bullet from the .45 caliber automatic ripped through the boy's chest and slightly wounded Mrs. Ferry, 23, in the side.

Ferry, a 28-year-old truck driver, told police he played cowboys with the boy after they watched a western film on television.

The boy kept pointing a toy pistol at his father and so Ferry grabbed a pistol he had borrowed from his brother and took out the clip. Forgetting the check for a bullet in the chamber, he pulled the trigger.

2 Minor Mishaps Reported by Police

Police today reported two traffic accidents in which only minor damage was reported.

Trucks driven by William H Trihaft, 53, of near LaRue and Raymond W Fattig, 20, of near LaRue collided on Bennett street at 11:33 a. m. yesterday.

A short piece of pipe rolled off a semi-trailer truck at 12 45 p m yesterday and damaged the left front fender of a car driven by Russell Binau, 36, of 473 Elmwood drive on Mt. Vernon avenue. Mr Binau told police the truck was apparently owned by a Columbus firm It did not stop.

Accident, Two Arrests On Patrol Report

An accident and two arrests yesterday were reported by the state highway patrol.

A car driven by Mrs. Frieda Louise Perry of 732 North Main street struck the rear of a car driven by Wilbur McClain, 46, of near Marion on Route 4, a mile and a half south of Marion, at 3:45 p m.

Mrs. Perry was arrested on a charge of driving without a driver's license and was cited to appear in Marion Municipal Court today

Slight damage to both cars was reported.

Robert Eugene McCann, 23, of Johnstown was arrested at 3:30 p. m. on Route 23 on a charge of crossing over the yellow line. He posted bond for appearance in Municipal Court Oct. 22.

Elmer Green, 32, of Galion was charged with failing to stop at a stop sign on Route 61 at 1 50 p m. He pleaded guilty before Mayor R. R. Bennington of Mt. Gilead and was fined $5 and costs

Perhaps the largest gun ever built was "Little David", designed by the U S Army to attack the German Siegfried line in World War II but never used.

Paul Hooper Wins Feature At Speedway

The added attraction of a 30-lap championship trophy race at the Marion Speedway Sunday brought a record crowd of fans to the track.

Hundreds of fans watched Paul "Dusty" Hooper of Marion take an early lead and hold it to the finish. Only Dick Grice of Marion, who threatened to take the lead, was close to Hooper

Hooper was awarded the Truman championship trophy. In addition to Grice, the next seven places also received trophies They were: Johnny Edgar of Marion, Frank Ferguson of Tiffin, Chet Howard of Mt. Gilead, Bill Colher of Marion, J. D. Dunn of Bucyrus, and Bill Williams of Marion.

High point man of the year was Bill Krohmer of Marion, who, along with his chief mechanic, Frank Riester, received trophies. Grice received a trophy for the fastest qualifying times in last week's Trophy Day time trials Plaques were presented to speedway judges and starter Art Stayner

The day's racing was marred by few accidents and no injuries. In the order of the events, the following were the day's other winners 1st elimination race, Emerson Dyer of Kenton; 2nd race, Roy Hobson of Marion, 3rd race, Dick Grice figure eight, Bill Colher, suicide race, Johnny Edgar and Louie Loucks of Marion and the final 25-lap feature race, Frank Ferguson of Tiffin.

Racing fans donated some $175 to Bill Morgan of Nevada who suffered a compound fracture of the jaw in last week's racing

High Court Splits in Civil Rights Ruling

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—(AP)—A white constable's hound and a Negro's automobile collided on a lonely Texas road one night two years ago—and the United States Supreme Court ruled yesterday on the upshot.

Justice Jackson, criticizing the court's seven-to-two decision, said the court had given its blessing to a "dangerous and novel importation into American criminal law." He spoke out in a 300 word memorandum. Justice Black was the other dissenter.

The court refused to give a hearing to an appeal from the constable and a companion, both of whom were convicted of violating the civil rights of the Negro. They were accused of beating and torturing him.

In other action yesterday, the Supreme Court.

1. Granted a hearing to four Negroes who brought suit to win admission to the University of Tennessee

2 Agreed to rule whether commercial radio broadcasts may be made to "captive audiences" in street cars and busses.

3 Decided to hear argument later this week on a request for reduced bail made 12 persons held for alleged Communist activities.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK, Oct 16—(UP)—Stocks opened quiet and irregular today.

Some of the oils met realizing and lost a point, including Amerada and Barber Oil. Kern County Land, however, rose nearly a point.

Steels, rails, motors, and aircrafts failed to develop a definite trend.

Initial trades generally held to small amounts. American Power opened 1,600 shares at 22¾ up 1/8; and North American, 1,600 at 18⅜ unchanged

Traders moved cautiously in view of the performance yesterday when the market ran into realizing late in the session and finished with the rails off a few cents in their average and the industrial average well below its top.

Small gains were noted in Westinghouse Electric, Bethlehem Steel, Standard Oil of California, National Biscuit, Studebaker, Norfolk & Western, Crucible Steel, and American Woolen.

Chrysler, Republic Steel, Goodrich, Sinclair Oil, Phillips Petroleum, Pennsylvania Railroad, and General Electric were among the issues holding at the previous close.

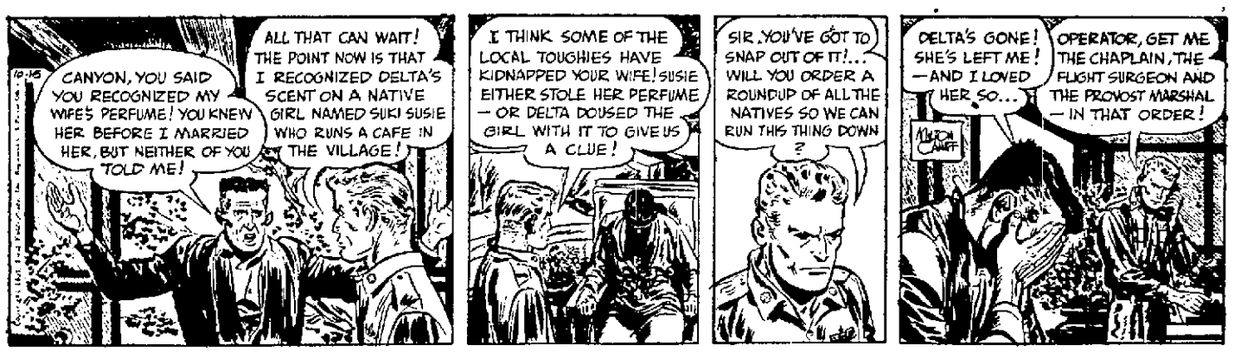
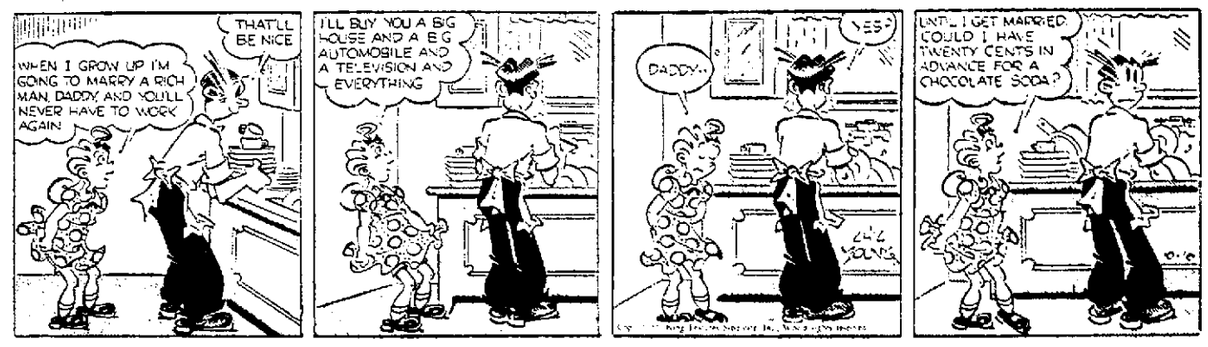
Steve Canyon — By Milton Caniff



CANYON, YOU SAID YOU RECOGNIZED MY WIFE'S PERFUME! YOU KNEW HER BEFORE I MARRIED HER, BUT NEITHER OF YOU TOLD ME!
ALL THAT CAN WAIT! THE POINT NOW IS THAT I RECOGNIZED DELTA'S SCENT ON A NATIVE GIRL NAMED SUKI SUSIE WHO RUNS A CAFE IN THE VILLAGE!
I THINK SOME OF THE LOCAL TOUGHIES HAVE KIDNAPPED YOUR WIFE! SUSIE EITHER STOLE HER PERFUME — OR DELTA DOUSED THE GIRL WITH IT TO GIVE US A CLUE!
SIR, YOU'VE GOT TO SNAP OUT OF IT!... WILL YOU ORDER A ROUNDUP OF ALL THE NATIVES SO WE CAN RUN THIS THING DOWN?
DELTA'S GONE! SHE'S LEFT ME! — AND I LOVED HER, SO...
OPERATOR, GET ME THE CHAPLAIN, THE FLIGHT SURGEON AND THE PROVOST MARSHAL — IN THAT ORDER!

Blondie — By Chic Young



WHEN I GROW UP I'M GOING TO MARRY A RICH MAN, DADDY, AND YOU'LL NEVER HAVE TO WORK AGAIN
THAT'LL BE NICE
I'LL BUY YOU A BIG HOUSE AND A BIG AUTOMOBILE AND A TELEVISION AND EVERYTHING
DADDY...
YES?
UNTIL I GET MARRIED COULD I HAVE TWENTY CENTS IN ADVANCE FOR A CHOCOLATE SODA?

Material bills are payable and the payroll keeps rolling. We need working capital, Walt.
That's our bottleneck.
We have $36,000 of unsold capital stock. It's up to you to move $9,000 worth.
That's out of my line, Ambrose. I wouldn't even know how to start.
It's easy. Disposable and fireproof wastebaskets, square bushels, rights to the fireproofing material. Grand talking points!
I'm counting on you, Walt!

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The treasury would like to collect in October to spend in November the income tax monies not due until next March . . . any questions?

* * *

My barber says he thinks this is a wonderful idea for anybody and would I please pay him now for all the haircuts I expect to get through next March so he can do his Christmas shopping early.

* * *

I said "but then what would you do in March with the money all spent in November and nothing coming in?" And he said, "I'll take a fresh lead from the Treasury . . . They'll think of something, they always do."

* * *

We used to pay on income we had earned, then we started paying on income as we earned it, then we started paying on income we expected to earn . . . Now they want us to pay in advance of expected to earn.

* * *

The Treasury says if it can get in a lot of the March money now it can keep down the deficit . . . this is the kind of economics that says "If I can borrow from next year I'll be in splendid shape this year."
